New police station to feature more for residents

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ Staff Reporter

Planned for a mid-November occupancy, the new Antioch Police Department downtown facility currently under construction is planned to be easier to use for citizens and officers.

The second floor will include a training room designed to accommodate 20 persons. Plans are to offer that room to organizations and civic groups looking for a place to meet.

"The citizens are paying for this building through their tax dollars, so they should be able to use it," Police Chief Charlie Watkins stressed.

"One of the things police departments tend to get sued for is lack of training," Watkins said.

The police organizations which conduct training charge departments for their officers to go to various locations. In addition, Antioch must pay its officers for their travel time and expenses.

With the availability of a training room within the new building, Antioch will be able to host some of the training.

If you provide the facility and arrange for the people to come to your facility, your training is provided free," Watkins said, noting taxpayers should eventually see the savings by a decrease in the department's training budget. "We can save quit a bit, plus offer more types of training."

Having an actual interrogation room will be new for Antioch detectives and officers.

"We don't have any interrogation facility now," admitted Watkins. "We will have an area in the new station where investigators can talk with people away from the cell block area."

The records/receptionist area will continue to see the records clerk wearing two hats. The clerk will greet people, ascertaining their reason for being at the department.

This area in the new building. unlike the old, will be completely separate from the areas where suspects and prisoners will be locat-

Pioneering preschoolers at Millburn Church

By JACLYN GRAHAM Staff Intern

Since the people at Millburn Church have noticed there is a lack of religious resource material available for preschoolers, they decided to do something about it.

They "pioneered" a specialized learning program for children ages 4 to 6, taking their Bible school program to another level.

For the first time this past June, Millburn held a week-long "Pioneer Days," program, written and developed by former Early Learning Center Director Amy James, Pastor Paul Meltzer, and the present Early Learning Center Director Wendy Michaelsen.

"We deliberately set out to create a curriculum ourselves to fill that gap for preschoolers," said Pastor Meltzer, "It turned out to be a really wonderful week. And the children had a great, great time."

The church's wooded picnic area was transformed into the pioneer Millburn settlement of the 1840s as an enthusiastic band of preschoolers discovered what it was like to live long ago in this year's program "In Their Steps: How the. Church Came to Millburn."

Real families in Millburn's history-Pollock, Thayer, White, and Trotter-came back to life as "family groups" explored what it was like to travel to the frontier and build a new community. Each day's theme was introduced with a Bible verse, and a "Gathering Character" told stories and led group songs. During a two-hour period every day, the young "settlers" built homes, made soap, washed clothes, dipped candles, ground com, made butter, built a log cabin church and school, planted and cooked, "tracked" animals, and played pioneer games. Due to the help of numerous volunteers, the children were able to experience many aspects of pioneer life.

For example, Mary Lester brought her wash tubs and wash boards for "wash day," where the children rigorously washed clothes without the conveniences of a washing machine. Mildred Haisma and Margaret Sharpnack sewed canvas packs for each child and made sunbonnets to costume the leaders, making the experience even more realistic.

Also, Yvonne Meltzer guided the candle dipping center, Brittany Behrendt and Kara Hartman taught the children pioneer games, Meryl Perlstrom was the butter maker, Winners abounded during the July 3 Antioch Independence Day Holiday Celebration. The biggest winners of all were the many families who were able to enjoy a day full of family fun.

"This year's event went very well," said Mayor Marilyn Shineflug. "We've heard a lot of positive

teers who helped with the various activities," Shineflug continued. "We couldn't have done it without them." "I especially want to thank the comments on all of the activities." "I want to thank all of the volunsmoothly and have resulted in nothing but positive feedback, according to the mayor. "The Lakes Area Band under the direction of Steve Porch did an excellent job closing out the day," Shineflug concluded.

Starting off with the Kids Parade Contest winners: Courtney Pierce won for bike decorating, Emma Howard for costume and Danielle Parpan for pet parade.

The Quilter's Dream July 4 quilt winner is Cinda Bartz of Antioch. Work is continuing on another Quilter's Dream project, the Wilderness Quilt, to be raffled off this fall for the William E. Brook Winter Recreation Project.

The Mayor's annual Apple Pie Contest winners were: "Traditional"-first place Jennifer Chivers, second place Carol Keller; Dutch Apple-first place Ken Larson, second place Jere Briggs.

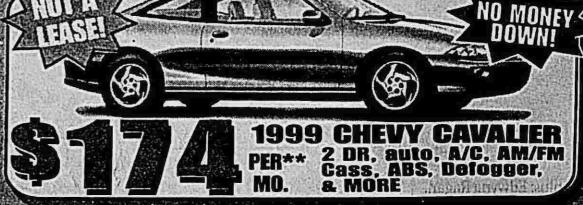

For the Firecracker sports contests, in softball, Snafu took first place and Phil's Crew took second.

Blazer giveaway highlights St. Peter's 'Block Party'

By MICHAEL H., BABICZ Staff Reporter

A good 'ole fashioned "Block Party" will be held from 1 to 11 p.m. Saturday, July 10 at St. Peter's School, 900 St. Peter's Street, in Antioch.

The nice thing about this party, all people have to do is show up and have a good time.

Full size refreshment tent serving various types of food and drink, carnival style games for children, live music and a great door prize are planned.

Live bands "Grease" and "Lost Childhood" will be performing.

A brand new 1998 Chevy Blazer, provided by Raymond Chevy Oldsmobile on Route 173 in Antioch, is being raffled off during the party. Tickets at $10 each are available at Raymond's, and also at several Antioch area banks and lending institutions. Tickets will also be available at the party.

Proceeds from the raffle, as well as the party itself, benefit the St. Peter's School "Extension 2000" project. The project committee is working toward having funds to construct four new and "much needed," classrooms along with a teacher's work

"What we hope is that our donation and the excitement it will generate is enough to ensure Extension 2000's success," said Mark Scarpelli, Raymond Chevy Olds dealership principal. "People in this area have always been wonderful in their support. It's how they show pride in their community. I know we're going to have a great turnout."

Scooping brings back memories for this writer, as that was the thing to do back in the '60s and '70s, when I was in high school at North Chicago. Was a lot of fun back then, taking my German Shepherd, "Beauty," head hanging out and tongue dragging, driving around in my '71 Ford Maverick. The only problem was it was a "three on the tree" and shifting was a pain in the neck.

Organizers are emphasizing the family in their plans this year. Pile everybody in the family station wagon, go down and have some good ole fashioned summertime fun.

A reminder to all of the aspiring cheerleaders in the Antioch area, it's time for the ACHS Cheerleading Clinic from 9 a.m.-2:30 p.m. Saturday, July 10 at the high school.

Coordinated by Robin Gwinn, ACHS cheerleading coach, Sequoit cheerleaders will assist in instructing clinic attendees. The clinic is open to both boys and girls, ages 6-14.

Doors open at 8:45 a.m. Walkin signups are accepted. Cost is $30 which includes a pizza lunch and liquid refreshments throughout the day. The clinic will conclude with a performance for parents and family members at 2:30 p.m.

Come on kids, this is your chance to yell and have fun without getting in trouble for it!!

Venetian Village man sentenced for child abuse

By JACLYN GRAHAM Staff Intern

Almost ten years ago, Theodore Van Emple, of Parma Avenue in Venetian Village, Lake Villa, raped a seven-year-old girl that he was babysitting. Now 27 years old, Van Emple finally has to take responsibility for his actions.

Six months ago, when the victim spoke about what had happened to her, Van Emple admitted to his crime and signed a written confession, which immediately found him guilty, said the victim's father.

On une 29, Van Emple was sentenced for three counts of aggravated sexual abuse. He was assigned 12 months of work release, 250 hours of community service, and 30 months probation. Pending good behavior, Van Emple may only serve nine months of work release. Van Emple also has to pay restitution to certain parties, such as the victim and Crime Stoppers.

The victim's father was shocked that Van Emple's sentence was lowered from three counts of aggravated sexual assault to three counts of aggravated sexual abuse. He says it occurred due to plea-bargaining and the fact that it took so long for the case to arise.

"But no matter how many years go by, people are still guilty of the crimes they've committed," said the father. He hopes this case serves as a wake-up call to any child who has been too afraid to tell someone that they have been abused.

He also hopes this tells children that the "bad people" will be punished if they have done something wrong, no matter how long it takes to let someone know.

Loon Lakes flood plain levels a pain

By JACLYN GRAHAM Staff Intern

Almost 100 people showed up at the public hearing for Loon Lakes residents in June as a result off the Lake County Stormwater Management raising the flood level elevation for Loon Lakes to 778.4 feet, nearly three feet above the prior level.

Mike Warner, chief engineer of the Lake County Stormwater Management Commission, did most of the talking, while concerned citizens asked questions and made comments toward his explanations.

Warner said that in 1994, the base flood elevation (BFE) level was erroneously raised from 772.7 feet to 775.6 feet.

However, the 775.6 feet BFE was used continuously within the Loon Lakes area for the past five years, and 90 percent of the residents were happy with it, Warner said.

The problems began when, four months ago, the Stormwater Management Commission raised the BFE almost three feet, to 778.4, said Warner, at the June 24 hearing.

What the commission did not look at was the negative impact that the nearly 3-foot change would have on the area, causing problems for things like home improvements, construction projects, septic system repair or maintenance, and flood insurance, said Warner.

After receiving letters and calls with concerns and complaints about the raised BFE, the Stormwater Management Commission decided to do a month long study, "using the best available data that we could find," said Warner.

The good news is the correct elevation based on their study is only one-tenth of a foot different from the 1994 number; it is 775.7 feet.

"I think our calculation is pretty close to whatever's going to come out of the wash," said Warner.

Family trying to cope with child's illness

Benefit for Reggie Garay to raise funds for family's hospital expenses

By ANGELA D. SYKORA Staff Reporter

When 13-year-old Reggie Garay of Round Lake Beach began complaining of stomach pains, his mother assumed it was harmlessmaybe too much candy, or a touch of the flu. No one was prepared for the enormous burden this once healthy, energetic little boy would have to bear.

And surely, his family never imagined they'd soon be keeping vigil at their child's hospital bedside, struggling with the uncertainty of life, and the possibility of death.

It was shortly after spring break when the Magee Middle School seventh grader took a turn for the worse. This was no stomach ache. His skin had turned a greenish, yellow cast from jaundice. Something was terribly

Reggie was hospitalized at Rush Presbyterian Hospital in Chicago for hepatitis, and slipped into a coma that would last for a week and a half.

It was Memorial Day weekend, Friday,

May 28, when Reggie's liver shut down on him. Time was of the essence, and time was running out. Thoughts of taking their son off life support plagued his family. Then, in what could've been his final hour, a liver match was found that Sunday, and surgery was performed immediately. Previously, said Reggie's mother Tracy Garay, two livers had become available but they weren't a match for her son.

"I've never had a child this sick. This is the worst time of our lives. It's hard to put it into words," she

For the first time since being hospitalized, Reggie has shown signs of alertness. He cannot

"It will be a long rehabilitation, but with the support of God, family, and friends, we believe he'll make it," said his mother Tracy. ... pressed pressed "God is with this child."

There are many people who believe this, and many who describe Reggie as a child who has it in him to beat the odds.

Reggie had so much energy; I wish I'd had some of it," said teacher Don Jankovich.

"It was such a shock to see him in the hospital, not moving around," he said.

Teaching assistant Colleen Peterson said Reggie loved to come to school and rarely missed a single

"I spoke to him at the hospital and he said he didn't feel bad, that he wanted to come back to school," said Peterson. After that was when Reggie lapsed into a coma.

"I feel helpless. He's like one of my own kids. We bonded, and he always treated me with the utmost respect," she said.

Out of all of her students, Peterson said to her, Reggie seemed the least likely kid to be struck down by such an illness. "I've never had a child this His energy and sick. This is the worst time of zest for life just couldn't be reour lives. It's hard to put it those close to him.

"The extent of his sickness really floored me. It was a shock because he was so healthy during the season," said Dacks.

Reggie placed first in the regionals, and fourth in the sectionals. He was also first in the Mustang Invitational. Dacks said Reggie wanted to work twice as hard next

"He's driven and has a hard work ethic. Reggie is a little guy with a ton of energy. He's an incredible gymnast," he said.

Although he didn't place high enough to go "down-state," Reggie supported the success of his teammates just the same. His mother Tracy said Reggie rooted the other kids on by helping them practice for their meets.

> "He didn't have to be there; he wanted to," she said.

Reggie's future is uncertain, his never wrestle again fears his grandmother, Wortise Moore, who affectionately refers to her grandson by the nickname "boo."

Moore said the school has been so good to their family. Classmates and wrestlers have sent cards and pictures, and numerous teachers and concerned friends have visited Reggie in the hospital.

"There are good people in the world," said Moore. "The doctors treated us like we had money. They took care of that little boy like he was a millionaire," she said.

The cost of taking a family cruise may be less than you think, since regardless of which size cabin you choose, the third, fourth and fifth passengers pay the same low "extra person in cabin" rate. This puts the per person cost of even a suite within the range of many family budgets.

When you consider the cost of gas, food, entertainment, lodgings, etc., you may just find a family cruise costing less than a trip to the Della and

And now that the lakes have re-opened, the boating season has once again resumed its weekend "every boater for himself" attitude. The head gurus in charge of watching over our waterways have implemented laws as to how loud a boat can be and how fast it can zoom across the surface of the water.

Now those same officials need to look into regulating the size a boat can be before it is allowed out on our lakes. Just once wouldn't you love to rent the QE2 for a weekend, drop it in at your local marina, pull up next to one of those Don Johnson wannabes, and crank the throttle. What a Kodak moment as the fake blond with her bottled tan, in a thong bikini, riding on the deck of her Speedo-clad significant other's vessel, gets swamped with some of that slimy, fish-smellin' seaweed that is produced so proficiently by our Chain O'Lakes water. One can only hope that a big bloated, very dead, scaly carp lands at her feet as well.

Thank goodness we locals have the rest of the week to enjoy our natural resources in the solitude that God intended. Now don't even get me started on the drivers of those annoying wave

Both have have become nnial powers in the world of school soccer in not only Lake inty, but the Chicagoland area. Bitta leaves behind a legacy that, ween both the girls and boys ms, saw him earn well over 500 ories and numerous state and tional appearances.

Now, just as Bitta exits, we happy welcome a new and possibly fue star athlete into the world.

Let me start by saying that last eek, I apologize for leaving out ntioch baseball player Nick Kocinski's stats with reference to the allarea team.

For the record, Nick hit at a .390 clip this past season for a team that eached the regional semifinals and inished 22-13. Nick also belted two nomers, drove in 35 runs, and the unior's glove worked wonders at hird base for the Sequoits this past

Now, there is a reason for the absence of Nick's stats-when I called head coach Paul Petty last Tuesday to confirm the figures, I had no such luck. That's because Paul and wife Paricia welcomed a new baby boy into the world (last Tuesday night). John Paul weighed in at a healthy six pounds, 15 ounces, and oins daughters Megan and Sara in the Petty household.

And sticking with the Sequoits, I had the honor of meeting Steve Schoenfelder last week, who was recently appointed to replace Jim Kafer as the school's new athletic director. Look for a story on Steve in next weeks issue.

We'd also like to pass along an extended congrats to Wauconda ootball player Ryan Porten, who igned a National Letter of Intent to play football at Saint Joseph's Colege in Rensselaer, Indiana.

Porten, a defensive back/receiver and resident of McHenry, garnered numerous honors during his cholastic career, including a host of Player of The Week as well as Alltrea recognitions.

The Bulldogs finished the 1998 campaign with a 7-3 record.

And sticking to the western folks, Round Lake's Tina Meyer was recently named to the Louisville Slugger National Fastpitch Coaches Asociation Division III All-Great Lakes Region Team.

Meyer, a junior at The University of Wisconsin-Whitewater, hit .458 this past season and also led the Warhawks in not only hitting, but on-base percentage.

Meyer also led the WIAC in those two categories.

Lakers make return trip to Nationals

By JOHN PHELPS Sports Editor

The Lakeland-based Lakers eighth-grade traveling basketball team is having yet another season to remember.

Two weeks ago, the Lakers advanced to the North American Youth Basketball National Championships following their state and regional titles in Streamwood and Bettendorf (Iowa).

In the state tournament at Streamwood, the Lakers averaged 61 points per game en route to five victories.

In the title game, the Lakers never trailed in posting a 58-46 decision over Team Chicago. Leading the way was center Brett Saternus with 16 points, forward Jon Gregoire (13 points and nine rebounds), and guard Justin Davenport (10 points). Guard Mike Lynn turned in an excellent defensive game, collecting eight steals to go along with 10 assists and six rebounds.

White poured in 18 points and Gregoire added 11 as the Lakers pounded Streamwood, 64-23 in the opening game of the tournament.

Lynn, from Lake Villa, scored 13 points, dished out seven assists and grabbed eight rebounds as the Lakers downed Moline (IL), 59-43 in the second-round game. Lynn, along with teammate Mark Woltzen, will attend Antioch High School starting this fall.

Turning to the quarterfinals, forward Adam Meckler of Round Lake popped in eight points, grabbed eight rebounds, and collected six steals as the Lakers prevailed 63-47 over Elmhurst.

Semi-final action didn't prove any different as Lakers guard Mike Armstead, who will attend Grayslake High School this fall, scored seven points, snared nine rebounds, and collected seven steals in a 59-40 victory over Illinois Airborne. Saternus paced the Laker offense, scoring 12 points to accompany 11 rebounds for the winners.

The Lakers then posted six consecutive victories en route to the championship in 24-team NAYB Regionals, held in Bettendorf, Iowa.

'It's been another great season," said head coach and league founder Denny Porter. "We're a smaller team this year. Our defense, quickness, and aggressiveness has really helped us be successful."

The team averaged 55 points while the defense held opponents to 47 points per contest during the sixgame stretch.

White led all Laker scorers with 97 points in the tournament, good for a 16 point per game average.

Meckler and Lynn played strong defensively, averaging seven rebounds and six steals per game, respectively. Lynn also averaged seven assists per contest during the stretch.

Additionally, Woltzen, an Antioch native, turned in his best performance of the regionals, averaging seven assists and four steals. Woltzen's floor game and leadership earned high praise from coach Porter.

The Lakers defeated Columbia,

Missouri 55-43 in the semifinals, followed by a 48-34 victory over the Chicago Hustle in the championship.

Next up for the Lakers is the AAU National Invitational Classic at Notre Dame this Friday, Saturday, and Sunday.

Then in August, the Lakers will represent the state of Illinois at the International Youth Basketball Championships, to be held at Michigan State University. Teams representing the U.S., Canada, and Europe will be on hand for the August

The Lakers are currently riding a 13-game winning streak, which started with a 94-90 victory over the Rockford Travelers. In that contest, guard Andre White scored 43 points, including 30 in the fourth quarter, as the Lakers erased a 20point deficit.

"It was incredible," said head coach Denny Porter. "I've never seen anything like that. Andre is one of the best eighth-grade players around."

The Lakers consist of select players representing a host of Lakeland/Lake County communities. The program was founded in 1968 by (Denny) Porter.

"It's one of the oldest youth programs in the country and our focus is to provide the opportunity for young kids to play at the highest caliber competition possible," said Porter. "It's a great opportunity for them."

With this being the 32nd year since the program's inception, Porter has fielded both boys and girls teams at the sixth through ninth grade levels of play.

Over the years, various teams have won numerous state, regional, and national titles AAU, Youth Basketball of America, American Youth Basketball, BCI, and North American Youth Basketball. Last year's eighthgrade boys team captured the United States National Championship at the NAYB Nationals.

A host of former area standout players have passed through Porter's program, including notable players such as Ryan Hogan of Deerfield and Grayslake's Dave Mendralla.

The Lakers, who currently sport a 27-11 record, are coached by Porter and assistant Rick Meckler of Round

Antioch summer baseball cruisin'

Sequoits record improves to 11-2

By JOHN PHELPS Sports Editor

The summer tournament is right around the corner and if things continue the way they have been, look for the Antioch High baseball team to make some waves.

The Sequoits are taking some numbers thus far, making Grayslake its latest victim Tuesday night by the count of 3-0.

"We're not scoring a lot of runs but doing enough to win," said head coach Paul Petty. "Our defense has been solid (throughout the summer) and the offense has been working in spurts."

Antioch, which improved to 11-

2, scored its runs in the latter innings. Key hits included RBI singles by Justin Kent and Chris Kocinski.

Kocinski went the distance on the mound in picking up the pitching victory.

"He threw a really thorough game," said Petty. "And our defense was solid behind him-I think we only made one mistake in the field."

The Sequoits play host to Grayslake again Friday in a 5 p.m. contest. The summer tournament begins July 19, and Antioch looks to be in good position for a top seed. The seeding meeting will be announced next week, at which time sites for first-round games will also be determined.

"The tournament is when you really start moving the chess pieces around," said Petty. "The summer also serves as kind of a precursor for next season."

Traveling softball players wanted

With the recent growth and interest in girls fast pitch softball, the Lindenhurst fastpitch softball program has expanded and has several openings on their younger teams for interested players. To qualify for a particular team, you must be of that age on Jan. 1, 1999 and have a sincere interest in girls fastpitch traveling softball. For further information and to arrange a meeting, contact Mitch Kotlarz at 356-9547.

The Lindenhurst fastpitch softball teams compete with teams through out Northern Illinois and in tournaments in Michigan, Indian, Wisconsin as well as in Illinois. Teams play between 30 and 60 games, depending on age category. The program also provides, twice per week, indoor winter hitting and pitching school for program players and any other player wanting to improve their skill.

Antioch's Sexton wins in former Winker car

he July 4 holiday weekend is always one great racing weekend. This year was no exception.

Pointleader and fast qualifier, Antioch's Tommy Sexton, picked up his fourth Star Trac sprint car feature win at Wilmot Speedway this season on July 3. Fittingly, it was Allen Winker Recognition Night, and Sexton's car is the last sprint car which Winker drove prior to his forced retirement because of medical reasons.

Winker was recognized in the program with a plaque from drivers who he has helped through the years. Yours truly presented him the 1st Annual Henry A. Babicz Wilmot Speedway Humanitarian Award in recognition of his "Man behind the scenes" attitude.

In the feature, Al's son, Kurt, finished 2nd, with Jim Moulis of Fox Lake behind him in third. Bruce Oldenburg of Round Lake Beach finished 17th and Gurnee's Tony Engels wound up 20th.

Oldenburg made the feature by finishing fourth in the "B' Main, which was won by rookie Brent Mason of Zion.

Lisa Heywood of Richmond was second in the "C" main, followed by Park City's Kirk Fehrman in fourth. Fehrman, incidently, celebrated his 25th birthday.

In the IMCA modifieds, Waukegan's Ed Devall won his third straight feature. Pointleader Rob Olson of Lake Villa, who won a heat race earlier, was second, followed by Antioch's Scott Kuxhouse fourth.
Lake Villa's Bobby John Hensley and
Jay Crichton also turned in solid performances, finishing fifth and sixth, respectively.

Other finishers included; Antioch's Neal Ostergaard seventh; Wilmot's Warren Meyer eighth;

Casey Atwood of Nashville,
Tenn. duplicated Biffle's feat in the

It's rodeo time in Wauconda

TEVE PETERSON f Reporter

Wauconda summer tradition will continue this weekend as the 36th an-■ nual IPRA Championship deo takes place Friday, July 8 ough Sunday, July 10.

Golden Oaks Equestrian Center ll once again be the site, with seval events planned starting at 8 m. Friday.

The event traces its heritage in auconda to 1963, its first year at e American Legion Hall. Attenince comes from a tri-state area, nd with some controversy, as deo supporters and animal rights ctivists exchange views.

"I think Wauconda is the best utdoor rodeo in the state. We exect 3 to 4,000 people each year," ccording to an organizer, Bill Latng of Latting Productions in Robins, Ill.

Latting explained the rodeo is ne of 500 to 600 listed during the ummer months in an industry nagazine. This weekend alone, cowboys can choose from several events, but each year they choose Wauconda. Chillochte, Ohio,

The annual Wauconda rodeo is expecting to draw between 3,000 to 4,000 people to watch events such as the above barrel racing competition—Submitted photo

Crossville, Tenn., and Arkansas, Carson City, Nev., and Winewood, Okla., are among the other stops. Many drive all night from stop to

As for the animal rights groups, including one based in Chicago, promoters of the rodeo believe "they have run out of steam. Last year, we started videotaping them after they had been videotaping us," Latting said.

The stand-by events which draw hundreds to the Route 12 site include: saddle bronc, bare back bronc, bull riding, calf roping, barrel racing and steer wrestling.

Saturday, the gates will open at 5 p.m. with the rodeo starting at 7 p.m.; and on Sunday, gates open at 12 p.m. with a 2 p.m. rodeo, US99 radio station is a sponsor. Ticket costs are: Friday and Sunday, adults, $10; Children 12 and under, $5. Saturday, adults are $12, children, 12 and under, $6. Parking is $5.

A look at what to expect at some of the events:

 Steer wrestling: Steer wrestling is probably the most exciting event in the rodeo arena. When a man drops from a galloping horse onto the steer, stops the steer and throws him to the ground, spectators have seen skill overcome heavily weighted odds.

· Bull riding: The most popular rodeo riding event, and the most dangerous, is bull riding. Many of the big cross-bred Brahmas go a whole season without being ridden a required eight seconds.

· Bareback bronc riding: The eight second bareback ride is confusing because sometimes a cowboys' wild spurring appears to be simply off while, in fact, the rhythm of man's legs on his horse is all that keeps the rigging from being torn out of his hand.

 Saddle bronc riding: Saddle bronc riding has less competition than any other event in professional rodeo. There's a reason-the instinctive reactions required to keep in the stirrups, sensing what a horse will do next and the rhythm required because there is nothing solid to hang on to, make this event one of the most challenging.

 Calf Roping: Calf Roping is a race against time with seconds counted in decimal points. To win, horse and rider must work together with precision teamwork.

- · Contact the utility companies in your new city about fees or deposits required. Remit these deposits with information about when and where you will want these services to begin.
- Send your forwarding address to your local post office. Send change of address cards to magazines, insurance companies, book clubs, stores and friends.
- Transfer your insurance policies so you'll be protected enroute and at your new home.
- · Notify the principle of your children's school about your move. Ask for a letter covering your children's status at school.
- Get medical records of shots and eyeglass prescriptions. Ask your doctor and dentist to recommend someone in your new hometown.
- Transfer your bank account. Arrange for sufficient cash or travelers checks to cover the cost of moving services and other expenses.
- Take your time choosing a moving company. Ask for suggestions from friends and relatives. Get estimates from several companies at least one month ahead.

To fly on an airplane, your cat or dog will need a health certificate from your vet and it's a good idea to get some tranquilizers. For long cross-country car tips, pets must be fed and watered, have rest stops and be kept on a leash. Check hotels and motels in advance about rules on pets.
- Plants should be repotted in unbreakable plastic containers, pruned 2 weeks ahead and be pest free. (put in plastic bags for 8 hours in cool area with bug/pest strips or flea collar) Pack and cushion in cardboard, cover with moist paper towels and punch air holes in lid. Or just take cuttings in a plastic bag, wrapped in wet towels.
- Prepare your children emotionally for the move by reading them books about moving and showing them pictures of the new city and your new home. Give them a party to say goodbye to their friends. Give yourself a party, too, a month or two before you leave.

From stately and dignified European roots, Tempel Lipizzans have afforded shows of grace and breathtaking style for decades. Here's an insider's look at the horses that have made northern Illinois famous ipizzans, or white stallions, are a royal breed of horse no fairy tale should be without. Their "ballet" performances became the most revered form of entertainment in all the courts of Europe. Now they dance for you, just as they did at the famed Spanish Riding School of Vienna, Austria, where their techniques were so treasured, the tradition was only passed on verbally from one generation of select riders to the next.

Tempel Farms of Old Mill Creek, near Wadsworth, is the only place in America where Lipizzan stallions regularly perform this classical dressage, and the only place in the world where breeding, training and performance take place on the same property. Thousands of horse lovers from around the world will converge on the country town for the summer performance season of the Tempel Lipizzans to experience all the passion and eloquence this rare breed with a magical history offers.

Roberta Williams The Lipizzan originated in the late 16th century when the Royal Court of Imperial Austria imported Spanish stallions to improve their domestic stock. Because of their sheer beauty, sophistication, strength and dexterity, Lipizzans became the favored breed for distinguished classical dressage and their place in military history is the stuff movies are made of.

Above: the Tempel Lipizzan Stallions have performed in Old Mill Creek for decades. Right: The pinnacle of the breed's career is to perform "Airs Above the Ground," involving difficult leaps and lifts. -Photos by Sandy

In 1945, toward the end of World War II, General George Patton ordered a special military mission to free a herd of Lipizzans from German troops that were holding them captive behind enemy lines. The dramatic rescue was the basis for the Disney film, "Miracle of the White Stallions."

The late Tempel and Esther Smith became enchanted with the breed when they saw a performance at Vienna's Spanish Riding School. It was their desire to bring the Lipizzans to America and share their magic with the public. After extended negotiation with the Austrian government, the couple received clearance to import the first 20 stallions in 1958. For a short time, the horses were housed in Wisconsin, then found a home at Tempel Farms in Old Mill Creek.

Recently, the president of Austria presented Tempel Smith's daughters, Linda Smith Buonanno and Martha Smith Simpson, with the "Officers Cross, Grand Decoration of Honour for Service to the Republic of Austria." Buonanno and Simpson have kept the Tempel Lipizzan legacy alive for the past two decades.

More than 700 foals have been born at Tempel Farms since 1959. Today there are approximately 100 Lipizzan stallions, or five percent of the world's entire Lipizzan population, at the farm.

When they are born, Lipizzans are dark in color and lighten with age. They reach their snowy white color between seven and 10-years-old. The breed is slow to mature, often lives beyond 30 and can perform well into their twenties.

Tempel Farms employs a remarkable staff of international

Keep your temper in check when someone purposely irks you early in the week. This person just wants to get a rise out of you; don't give him or her the satisfaction. A loved one turns to you in a time of need.
Be supportive, and offer him or her a shoulder to cry on.

Gemini – May 22/June 21
Try not to get upset when that special someone forgets an important date. He or she doesn't mean to hurt you; it is just a hectic week. Don't make it into more than it really is. A friend asks to borrow money. Before saying yes, find out why he or she needs the cash. Something isn't right about the entire situation. Virgo is involved.

Cancer – June 22/July 22
Your sense of humor makes a tense business situation easier to handle. By lightening the mood, you help those involved relax and actually get work done. The higherups reward your efforts. That special someone asks you an important question. Be truthful with him or her.

Leo – July 23/August 23
Don't let your pride get in the way of asking for help when it comes to a personal problem this week, Leo. You know that you can't handle this situation alone. Those closest to you won't think that you're weak just because you need some assistance. Cancer plays an important role.

Virgo – Aug 24/Sept 22
Don't be late for a family event this week. You will miss out on an important financial opportunity if you are. That special someone needs advice about a problem at work. Don't let your feelings keep you from being honest. He or she needs to hear the truth from you.

Libra – Sept 23/Oct 23
Don't let a disagreement with a loved one get you down. Neither of you means what you say, so don't hold a grudge. Talk with him or her, and clear the air. Once you do this, things will be back to normal. You run into an old friend late in the week. Spend time with him or her.

Scorpio – Oct 24/Nov 22
There is a lot to do this week, Scorpio. Don't get distracted by unimportant events. Keep your mind on the tasks at hand, and work diligently. You will make significant progress if you do this. You'll have plenty of time to relax later in the week. Pisces plays a key role.

Sagittarius – Nov 23/Dec 21
Don't let a minor setback at work get you down. Things aren't as bad as they seem. Try to look at the bright side of things, and work hard to make some progress. Your efforts will be noticed by the higherups. A loved one offers you romantic advice. While it sounds corny, don't disregard it. It can make a difference.

Capricorn – Dec 22/Jan 20
Don't be shy when you meet an interesting person early in the week.
Just be yourself, and you're sure to make a good impression. He or she could be the one for you. A friend needs help with a personal matter. While you don't want to get involved, you have to. Do what you can for him or her.

Aquarius – Jan 21/Feb 18
Don't take a co-worker's off-the-cuff comment to heart. This person doesn't mean anything by it; he or she is trying to be funny. Laugh it off, because it isn't worth being upset about. A close family friend confides in you. Be there for him or her, but don't tell anyone about the conversation. Remember, this person trusts you.

Pisces – Feb 19/March 20
Show compassion for a friend in need — even if he or she deserves to be in this situation. You really are the only one who can help. Do what you can for him or her.

The road to discovery is paved with accidents

don't know where the term "an exact science" came from, since it seems that scientists are always discovering things accidentally. I suppose that's why our government and our institutions of higher learning agree to fund all sorts of seemingly frivolous research projects. They know that someday like, say, during a study of how many bites it takes to reach the center of a Tootsie Roll pop (three!), scientists will discover a cure for obsessive-compulsive behavior.

I learned about just such an accidental discovery in a short sidebar article that ran in Time magazine. Apparently, it all started during a study of a synthetic hormone called Melanotan at the University of Arizona. Initially, they found that injecting the stuff into frogs resulted in little froggie tans.

Now, not being a scientist myself, my first thought would have been, "Let's hire an agent! Maybe the Budweiser people will want to hire these frogs for a new commercial—Budweiser Frogs at the Beach Party." But that's why I'm not a scientist. Because if I were, my first thought should have been, "Cool!
Now let's inject the stuff into people!"

Which they did, and the people—ten men, to be exact—all turned tan, too. But that's not all. Not only did they turn tan, but eight out of ten men also received an added bonus. An instant...inflation, to put it delicately.

Obviously, this was not what the scientists were expecting. They hadn't even noticed any similar result with the frogs, but I suppose that has something to do with the "pickle question." You've heard the saying, "Is that a pickle in your pocket, or are you just glad to see me?" Well, most frogs look like green pickles with legs, so even if they had a pickle in their pocket, who would know? Plus, frogs can't talk, and men can, which is actually how the scientists discovered the "bonus" effect of this substance in the first place. One of the male test subjects told the scientist what happened, and then several of the other men admitted that they'd had the same reaction.

So now, instead of a new sunless tanning pill, they may have a new sunless manly pill. All of which makes me wonder—if scientists discover things mostly by accident, and if they don't even notice all the results of their testing unless someone tells them, why does our government provide THEM with millions of dollars in free funding? Since when does dumb luck require a Ph.D.?

Why not just send the money to ME, because I'll bet with a little time and a lot of tax dollars, I could discover things by accident, too. Here are a few research projects I'd be willing to look into for a few million or so:

Research: If there are 3 checkout lanes open at the grocery store, why do I always pick the slowest one?

Unexpected benefit to society: A cure for teeth grinding.

Research: Why does the grass grow greener over the septic tank?
Unexpected benefit to society:
A rather unpleasant cure for malepattern baldness.

Research: Do black patent leather shoes really reflect up?

Unexpected benefit to society: White House interns will no longer be allowed to wear them.

Research: If there is a household with no adult women, does anyone ever replace the empty toilet paper roll?

Unexpected benefit to society: Men, unwilling to concede the obvious, will invent the "automatic toilet paper roll replacer."

Research: Were Martha Stewart and Diane Sawyer separated at birth?

Unexpected benefit to society:
None, really. I just want to know.
Those are just a few of the ways that I could benefit our society, if only I could get some free government funding. The trouble is, I have a hunch there's another reason why they only give research money to people with a Ph.D.

Not just any dummy can fill out those "request for funding" forms.

TEMPEL: Beauty, grace mark Lipizzan shows

experts who train the horses in classical dressage. Training begins around the age of four. The Lipizzan breed is well-suited for dressage training, but it is the challenge of the trainer to recognize a horse's potential.

Only the finest stallions ever reach the most demanding levels of dressage performance. Trainers spend years with a horse observing and evaluating. Such development continues until the horse is ready to perform all that is required in the art of classical dressage.

Alf Athenstaedt, performance rider and director of Tempel Lipizzan performances, was a highly regarded competitive dressage rider in Europe who visited Tempel Farms in 1965—and never left. He is considered to be one of today's foremost experts in dressage.

"Joining Tempel Farms' staff was a chance to experience real independence in training and riding, and a chance to help build something that few Americans had ever been able to enjoy," said Athenstaedt.

"Now that I've seen more than a decade of performance seasons at Tempel Farms, I'm very glad I stayed. I feel as if we've established a new American tradition...a tradition that I hope will endure for many, many years to come," he said.

George Williams is the director of Lipizzans and dressage training. He had studied dressage in Germany as a young man, and initiated the Dressage Center at Tempel Farms, where students bring their horses for training by the staff, or learn with Lipizzan horses. Candidates from all over the world have come to Tempel Farms to work with Williams and his staff.

"At Tempel Farms a rider can experience the challenge of 'creating' a dressage horse, training a young stallion through all the levels of schooling," said Williams.

Williams is one of the few riders to compete on a Lipizzan stallion and has emerged as a very successful upper-level competitor. He scored a first-place finish in the Pan American selection trials, and has won numerous Grand Prix level competitions.

Roberta Williams, George's wife, is the director of program development. She met the late Tempel Smith as a child. When she first visited Tempel Farms, she said it was "the most beautiful place I'd ever seen."

For a life-long horse enthusiast, being on staff is a dream come true, especially being able to work with such a rare breed. Plus, said Williams, "the people I work with are as special as the horses."

Being close to the Lipizzans can make one feel like a real-life princess, said Williams.

"The nicest time is at night after feeding when they're all looking at you with those big eyes," she said.

"There's something about the outside of a horse that is good for the inside of a man."

The Tempel Lipizzan summer season began June 23 with a special guest appearance by twin foals that were born in the spring of 1998. It is a rare occurrence that takes place in fewer than one percent of all horse births, and is made even more numerically scarce by the rarity of the Lipizzan breed.

"It was just so neat," said Williams of the twins' birth. "We all walked around with silly grins on our faces."

June 23 was the twins' first and only public appearance for at least five years so they can "grow, play and just be horses," said Williams.

During the 1998 season, a contest was announced to name the colt and the filly. Nearly 3,000 people from 13 countries and 36 states submitted entries.

The name of the filly had to begin and end with the letter "A" like her mother Almira. The colt needed a nickname, because he was already officially registered as Favory V Almira, after both mother and father. The name indicates that his father, Favory V Jacinda, is a member of the Favory line—one of the six recognized Lipizzan bloodlines.

At a birthday party on opening day, complete with carrot cake and party hats for an audience of approximately 700 people, the twins were christened. Donna Mueller of Lake Forest had the winning entry and won a season pass to the performances. She named the filly, "America," and the colt, "Austria."

Lipizzan horses are best known for "Airs Above the Ground," a level that only the best stallions ever achieve. This display combines difficult leaps and lifts that spotlight the breeds' physical power and suppleness. The movements were originally used as medieval battle techniques and later refined to their present form.

After performances, guests are invited to tour the historic mahogany and brass show stables for a behind-the-scenes look at the stallions, and enjoy lunch in their outdoor cafe. New this year is a display of American, English and other European carriages.

The summer season of the Tempel Lipizzans is now through September 1. Performances are every Wednesday morning at 10:30 a.m., and every Sunday at 1 p.m.

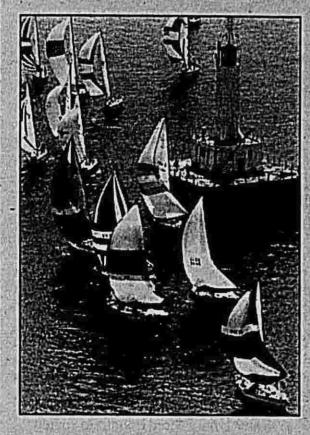

Tickets are available at the gate.
Prices are $14 for adults, $12 for seniors, and $5 for children ages 4 through 14. Group discounts may be arranged by calling (847) 244-5330. In case of inclement weather, performances are held indoors. Parking is free.

Tempel Farms is located at the corner of Hunt Club Road and Wadsworth Road in Old Mill Creek.

he Chicago Yacht Club's Race to Mackinac, the world's oldest freshwater yacht race, sets sail Saturday, July 10. Over 300 boats, crewed by approximately 3,000 sailors, compete annually in this 333-mile race from Chicago to Mackinac Island, Michigan. Founded in 1898, this year marks the 101st anniversary of the race's founding and the 93rd running of the race. tervals until approximately 3 p.m. The smallest boats start first.

The starting line is located on Lake Michigan two miles east of Chicago's Monroe Harbor, between the orange mark set in the water and the flag of the Chicago Yacht Club race committee boat. The finish line for the race is between the lighthouse on Round Island, located between Mackinac Island and Mackinac City, Mich., and the CYC race committee trailer on the island.

Prior to the starts, the parade of competing boats sail past Navy Pier with their ceremonial flags raised from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The public can watch the parade from the east end of Navy Pier and from the pier's third-floor observation deck.

THEATRE REVIEW

Decadent 'Cabaret' storms into town

ince its Broadway staging in November, 1966, "Cabaret" has become a theatrical clas-

Under director Sam Mendes and co-director/choreographer Rob Marshall, the current revival of this cherished musical, playing at . Chicago's Shubert Theatre through July 24, is a real stunner. It's darksimultaneously horrifying and fascinating - and the costumes are tawdrier than ever.

Set in 1929-30 Berlin, when Hitler's Nazis were in a state of foment, the story -with music and lyrics by John Kander and Fred Ebb - re-creates a smarmy German night spot, the Kit Kat Klub, whose flamboyant emcee encourages guests to chuck their inhibitions and "leave your troubles outside." It tells a story of an English woman's torrid affair with an American writer while a subplot zeroes in on the illfated romance between an aging Jewish merchant and his struggling landlady.

Teri Hatcher, whose medium until now has been television and movies, makes her stage debut in the lead as Sally Bowles, the club's flighty headliner who doesn't know enough to trust her own heart. Hatcher's English accent is stilted, but she gives a spirited performance. Her singing provides more than a little pleasure. (Now if only she wouldn't keep her hands frozen to the mike during her number, "Cabaret.")

No matter. Mendes has assembled a first-rate cast. Norbert Butz, as emcee, displays the scandalous attitude necessary to carry off the role. Act I ends with him flashing the audience a swastika tattooed on his hind quarters.

Dick Latessa is touching as Herr Schultz, a lonely widower whose plans are thwarted by the politics of hate. Other strong players include Barbara Andres, the cautious spinster; Rick Holmes, as Sally's lover; and Andy Taylor, as Ernst, a dedicated sympathizer of the Third Reich.

The Shubert itself was partly reconfigured to contribute to the drama. Several rows of seats were removed and replaced with tiny tables and chairs to re-enforce the cabaret atmosphere. Patrick Vaccariello does an excellent job as musical supervisor.

Wild, Wild West' goes up in smoke

acky and whimsical yet tasteless and insensi-tive is how I describe the new Will Smith movie, Wild, Wild West. Sitting through this film, I found myself torn between tolerance, then outright scorn. There were parts to this new retro version of the 1960's TV series that tickled my fancy, but there was even more that rubbed me the wrong way.

I was not more than a twinkle in my mother's eye when the TV series was on the air during the 60's, so I cannot honestly compare the new modern version of Wild Wild West with its TV counterpart, but I do hear it falls off the balance beam good taste with its blatant racial sexual overtones.

In the 1999 film, Will Smith trays the witty and charming Sp cial Agent West, who in my opini is a westernized black James Bon He is unwillingly teamed up with Special Agent Artemus Gordon (Kevin Kline) to stop the diabolica "half-man" Dr. Arliss Loveless. D Loveless is a wicked and cynical d patron of the Civil War who is planing to kill President Grant unless he surrenders the entire US Army into his possession.

West and Gordon battle again the artillery equipped Loveless and his fair maiden destroyers to win West back.

you think you got your money's worth. I didn't . I would rather have sat home and watched the tube.

Heck, my friend Allison loved the pants that Will Smith wore, black patent with fringe. If anything, maybe you'll pick up some fashion tips or "smooth" lines. But guys, don't expect the girls to come running. We love the "old fashioned" ways but there is a limit to everything. If I were you I'd save my time and money and wait for Wild, Wild West to come out on home video because there was nothing "wild" about this flop. This Hollywood recipe could've used alot more spice and a bit less poison. For that, I give

Follow these tips to plan the perfect summer vacation

Minnesota office of tourism offers last-minute summer travel planning tips

Have you made your summer vacation plans yet? Well, if you're among the millions of Americans who are still scrambling to pull together the perfect summer vacation, here are some helpful ideas to get you on your way.

But before you get wrapped up in the nitty gritty details — stop. Take a deep breath and take a few minutes to imagine what your ideal summer vacation could be. That's the advice of Steve Markuson, director of the Minnesota Office of Tourism. The key to planning a perfect summer vacation, he says, even if it's done at the last minute, is thinking about your vacation trip as a story.

"What's the first thing friends, family and co-workers say as soon as you return from a vacation?" says Markuson. "They always ask 'What did you do?' 'What did you see?' and 'Anything interesting happen on your trip?"

"Vacation trips are stories in of themselves," he adds, "so, why not plan a vacation as if you were writing a story or screenplay? When you begin to think of it in that way, it becomes much easier to plan the vacation around the things you really want to do. So take a few minutes to carefully think about where you want to go, what activities you want to participate in, or experiences you're interested in. Soon, your perfect summer vacation will begin to unfold before you."

The Minnesota Office of Tourism (MOT) helps more than 1.5 million Minnesota residents and out-of-state visitors plan Minnesota vacations annually. The MOT has established a premier travel planning and information resource service that handles hundreds of travel inquiries daily. The secret to the MOT's success, says Markuson, is hiring knowledgeable people and incorporating state-of-the-art technology that helps vacationers people access information quickly and easily.

"When you've never traveled to a certain place, but you have an idea of what the perfect vacation will be, it can become very frustrating when you can't get the information you need to make that dream trip come alive," Marksuson adds.

To help you plan your perfect summer vacation, whether it's at one of Minnesota's beautiful 10,000 lakes or to Minnesota's vibrant Twin Cities, the Minnesota Office of Tourism offers the following tips: Reserve your time. Whether you're traveling on your own, or especially with other people, nail down and secure vacation time as soon as possible. Be sure to take into consideration the weather, other tourists, and special events as you plan your vacation.

Get it on paper. To aid your travel planning efforts, write down a list of the ten to twenty items that are essential to a perfect vacation.

List your "must haves," such as a place that will accept Fido, the pet dog, to ideal elements, such as sandy beaches or places to enjoy the performing arts. Don't forget to note the interests of others who are traveling with you, such as a playground for the kids, or a strange roadside attraction such as "the world's biggest ball of twine," for your friend who has that quirky sense of humor.

Ask friends, family and co-workers. Before you crack open a travel planning book ask friends, family members and co-workers for recommendations of places they've vacationed.

Surf the net. To aid your research, turn on the computer and use a powerful search engine such as Alta Vista or Yahoo!. For example, the Minnesota Office of Tourism has a new web site, www.exploreminnesota.com, that allows you to gather information about Minnesota vacation activities: hotels, motels and resorts; entertainment; and much more. The MOT's web site offers very specific information about many vacation destinations throughout the state, including links to specific resorts, hotels, motels, campgrounds, attractions and festivals/events.

Trip planners. There are an increasing number of services that can help you plan your perfect trip. The Minnesota Office of Tourism, for example, offers its own travel experts who can help you pinpoint various vacation options, either by telephone, or through the convenience of the MOT's web site. The information can be mailed, faxed, e-

LODGING

THINGS TO DO

FESTIVALS & EVENTS

Check it out. After you decide where and when you want to go, make sure to place a call into the hotel, motel, resort or campground where you plan to stay to get more details. If you're traveling to a location you haven't visited before, place a quick call into the chamber of commerce or convention and visitors bureau of the nearest town or city to verify the information you've already collected.

Create a day-by-day itinerary.
Don't think of it as another to do list, but a helpful guide to make sure the story of your trip unfolds as you've dreamed about it. And, more importantly, an itinerary will ensure that you remember to bring everything you need. It can be awfully maddening if you plan to go fishing but you forget to pick up a fishing license or pack your favorite lures.

Reconfirm your reservations.
Before you head out the door, place a quick call to reconfirm your first night's lodging. Also, let the owner or manager know when you plan to arrive, especially if it may be later in the evening, after 8:00 p.m.

Stop delivery... of your newspaper and mail if you plan to be away for more than a few days so it looks like you're home, when you're actually on vacation. Let your next door neighbors know that you'll be away and ask them to watch your home. And, make arrangements to have your lawn mowed by a neighborhood teenager or a lawn service.

Don't forget film... and all the other little things you'll need to capture your summer vacation memories and tell your story when you return home. Other items you may want consider: a journal to write notes about your trip; crayons and coloring pad to allow your kids to draw pictures of what they see and do; and a video camera or a new digital camera that allows pictures to be placed on the Internet.

Chicago Botanic Garden to open new Buehler enabling garden

The Chicago Botanic Garden will open a new 11,000-square-foot enabling garden on July 17. The new garden, the preeminent garden of its type in the world, will feature landscape, structures, tools and techniques showcasing how nearly everyone — including seniors and people with disabilities — can enjoy the many physical and emotional benefits of gardening.

"The new Buehler Enabling Garden celebrates the connection between plants and people by making it possible for nearly everyone to reap the many benefits of gardening," said Barbara Whitney Carr, president and chief executive officer of the Chicago Botanic Garden. "We are extremely grateful to the Beuhler Family Foundation for their generous contribution and commitment to this garden and the people it will benefit."

The garden — located on the west side of the Chicago Botanic Garden's main island — will feature plantings that stimulate the senses, displays of adapted tools, hanging baskets on pulleys, vertical gardens that increase the ease of gardening, and planting beds and containers raised to varying heights for comfortable reach — all in a spectacular setting.

Designed as a formal garden with brick and stone walls, the garden has three "rooms" to explore: a container court, a gallery garden, and an overlook garden. It also has one of the most spectacular vistas at the Garden. Trellised archways and vaulted rooflines frame panoramas that sweep across the water to Evening Island. Water features include two cascading water walls and several elevated pools for aquatic gardening.

Opening festivities for the Buehler Enabling Garden will be held on July 17 and 18 featuring tours, demonstrations, refreshments, music and plant giveaways. The opening weekend and the entire opening season is presented by Skokie-based Parkside Senior Services, developer of local continuing care retirement communities, The Seasons at Glenview Place and Lake Barrington Woods.

The Garden's previous enabling garden—built more than 22 years ago—was one of the first in the country and served as the model for many other enabling gardens. The new Buehler Enabling Garden is substantially larger than the original garden, and includes an outdoor classroom and an interpretive center showcasing a variety of educational and other tools.

The new garden is located next to the Sensory Garden which is complementary in purpose and mission.

The plans for the Enabling Garden were the result of an extensive collaboration among Garden staff, architects, landscape designers and experts on universal design. Environmental Planning and Design of Pittsburgh, Pa., which also created the original master plan for the Chicago Botanic Garden, served as landscape architects for the Buehler Enabling Garden. Staff from the Smithsonian Institute, the National Center on Accessibility, the American Horticultural Therapy Association and Mayor's Office for People with Disabilities also provided valuable insights for the garden.

The Buehler Garden will include expanded activities and classes through the Garden's world-renowned Horticultural Therapy Program. Horticultural Therapy is the use of professionally directed gardening and nature activities to advance therapeutic goals. The program, headed by Gene Rothert, the Garden's manager of Horticultural Therapy, who has received considerable recognition for its advisors to a number of botanic gardens, children's centers, senior centers, rehabilitation hospitals and residential facilities interested in creating their own gardens or horticultural therapy programs.

On July 28, the Garden will host a symposium: "Enabling Gardens: A Study Day for Professionals," featuring lectures a garden tours. Next year, the School of the Chicago Botanic Garden will offer a Horticultural Therapy Certificate Program.

The 385-acre Chicago Botanic Garden is owned by the Forest Preserve District of Cook County and managed by the Chicago Horticultural Society. The Garden is open every day of the year, except Christmas, from 8 a.m. until sunset. The Garden is located on Lake Cook Road in Glencoe, one-half mile east of the Edens Expressway. Admission is free; selected event fees apply. Parking is $7. On Tuesdays, senior citizens, age 62 and older, pay just $5 for parking.

1999 four-door Ford SuperCab expands Ford Ranger's appeal

he addition of a four-door SuperCab to Ford Ranger's lineup makes Ranger one of the most versatile compact pickup trucks on the road. The change, made midway through the 1998 model year, means Rangers is one of only two compact pickups to offer a four-door model (Mazda's B-Series is the other).

Ranger's new forward-opening third and fourth rear doors greatly improve access to the rear of the cab. Using the third and fourth doors, owners can access the rear compartment from either side of the truck, which helps when loading cargo and gear.

"Customers confirm every day in dealer showrooms that they like more doors," Ranger Brand Manager Drew Cook said, referring to the fact that Ford Motor Company also added fourth doors to its 1999-model F-150, F250 and F-350 full-size pickups and its 1999-model Windstar minivan. "More doors means more utility. Utility is what today's customer demands."

The optional rear doors hinge off the corner pillars of the cab and swing out 90 degrees from the door sill. No "B-pillars" are in the way to interfere with loading. Rear doors are fitted with side-door intrusion beams for extra protection.

The four-door SuperCab model also includes flip-fold, center-facing jump seats with safety belt retractors and two standard . storage bins on the lower door trim.

Third and fourth doors have expanded the appeal and versatility of pickups and minivans," said Paul Morel, Truck Group brand manager for Ford Division. "Since we added a third door (and now a fourth door) to our F-150 a couple of years ago, we've new front-end styling, interior, durability and performance improvements and a new front suspension.

RANGER: Ford expands truck's appeal

Overall, Ranger's blend of toughness, fun and affordability traditionally appeals to value-conscious truck buyers seeking a sporty, rugged pickup that is versatile enough to go anywhere and do anything, yet efficient and stylish.

Among Ranger's most recent significant upgrades for the 1998 model year:

Interior:

•Regular Cab wheelbase was stretched, adding 3 inches to the interior and allowing for an extra inch of seat travel and a steeper reclining seat back.

•All models were upgraded with added seat padding for comfort, easy adjustment and a more attractive appearance.

Under the hood

•Two of the three engines that power Ranger were improved to deliver better performance. Ranger's standard four-cylinder boasted a 10 percent increase in horsepower and torque, while increasing displacement from 2.3 liters to 2.5 liters.

•Torque was boosted on the 3.0-liter V-6 by 14 percent.

Other functional improvements

•A patented 4x4 system called Pulse Vacuum Hublock - PVH, was added, allowing for silent, easy shifting in and out of four-wheel drive at virtually any speed.

•Ranger's front frame section is fully boxed, allowing 360 percent improvement in torsional rigidity. Some of the added weight was offset by a new aluminum hood, which is 10 pounds lighter than the hood used on Ranger just a few years ago.

*The front suspension was overhauled, changed to a short-and long-arm (SLA). The suspension uses coil springs with 4x2 drivelines and torsion bars with 4x4 powertrains to provide comprehensive ride and handling benefits.

*Ranger received rack-and-pinion power steering, which provides better linear response and improved on-center feel compared to the prior recirculating ball system.

Ranger offers .2.5 liter I-4 (119 horsepower), 3.0-liter V-6 (150) horsepower) or 4.0-liter V-6 (160 horsepower) engines, available with 4x2 and 4x4 drivetrains (2.5-liter engine only available with 4x2).

Transmission choices include a fivespeed manual, four-speed automatic and exclusive in the compact pickup class - a five-speed electronically controlled automatic (shared by the Mazda B-4000 pickup). This transmission is an option with the 4.0liter engine.

When equipped with the 60/40 front bench seat, Ranger SuperCab can seat a maximum of five passengers. The jump seats can be deleted for buyers who want an open rear compartment.

For 1999, a flexible fuel (ethanol/gasoline) 3.0-liter V-6 engine is standard. This engine can burn 100 percent unleaded gasoline, E-85 (ethanol) or a combination of both fuels.

The new four-door Ranger allows easy access to the rear seats.

Building 'blocks...' is food and fun that also happens to be a great cause

It's a party and you're invited. You don't have to bring anything, just show up and have a great time. There'll be food, games, live music, and oh, did we mention that there's a door prize. Nope, not a clock radio, crafts, knick-knacks or a food processor, they're raffling off a brand new 1998 Chevy Blazer!

It's not a typical invitation, because this is not a typical party. On Saturday, July 10th, from 1 p.m. until 11 p.m. St. Peter's School will hold its annual "Block Party" at 900 St. Peter's Street. The event is meant to give people a great time, build community fellowship, and raise a little money for the school's "Extension 2000" building fund.

Live bands including Grease and Lost Childhood will perform to keep things hoppin'. The kids will have plenty of fun with the carnival style games and food, serious food, with a full size refreshment tent open to the general public. But behind all the music, satisfied stomachs and merriment is a cause that goes deep into some people's hearts.

"The party is going to be a great time, but we're all really hoping it will give "Extension 2000" a big lift," said Kevin Shoudel, an event coordinator from Raymond Chevy Oldsmobile. The dealership, located at 118 Route 173 in Antioch, donated that brand new 1998 Chevy Blazer that will be raffled off during the "Block Party." "Everybody here is trying to sell as many raffle tickets as we can to try and help the school, help this community."

The raffle tickets, $10 each, are being sold at Raymond Chevy Oldsmobile and several Antioch banks and lending institutions. With the proceeds from the Blazer giveaway. St. Peter's "Extension 2000" committee hopes to build four new, much needed, classrooms, and a teacher's work area for St. Peter's grade school.

"What we hope is that our donation and the excitement will generate for the raffle is enough to ensure that Extension 2000's success," added Mark Scarpelli, dealership principal at Raymond Chevy Olds. "People in this area have always been wonderful in supportining local businesses and charities. It's how they show pride in their community. I know we're going to have a great turn out."

For information on the school, the "Block Party," or "Extension 2000", please contact St. Peter's School at 395-0037. To purchase tickets for the July 10th drawing you can stop by Raymond Chevy Oldsmobile 118 Route 173 in Antioch or call 395-3600. Antioch financial institutions also have raffle tickets for sale, See your local bank for details.

Summer road travel: Make life easier at rental car counter

The rental car industry's growth is on the rise at the rate of about 8-10 percent per year. That's because more people are renting cars, and for a variety of reasons. It used to be that airports were the place for a rental car company to be, and that businessmen were the primary customers. Not so anymore, with many families renting cars for a variety of reasons, from using a van to haul the gang to soccer games, to renting a four wheel drive vehicle for a vacation in the mountains.

Summer is the most popular season to rent a vehicle for a family road trip. "Because this is the busiest time of year for us," says Tom Mc-Donnell, owner and CEO of U-Save Auto Rental, "we recommend trying to plan as far ahead as you can. There are ways to make this procedure quick, with no disappointments and problems while you're on the road." Over 400 owners of U-Save Auto Rentals around the world have compiled some tips for those renting vehicles. Their collective comment? "This should be a fun experience with hassle-free procedures."

To make sure it is, before renting a vehicle, consumers need to do some homework to have all their questions answered about driver responsibility, fees, and insurance. Here are some tips from the professionals at U-Save Auto Rental.

1) In choosing your rental vehicle, are you thinking ahead of time? If size is a factor, consider how many people will be riding in the car or how much luggage or parcel space you will need. Keep in mind, a four door car may cost more than a two door, so ask in advance. If special features are important, such as power steering, air conditioning, stereo/cassette player, or sunroof, be sure to ask for a vehicle that includes them, and if there is any additional cost for these features.

2) Pick Up & Delivery? Ask your rental company whether or not employees pick up the vehicle and return it to the rental agency for you, or if that is your responsibility. If that is in fact the rental agency's responsibility, ask if there is an extra charge for that service. Most companies offer the service free of charge, but some will charge more for further traveling to pick up the vehicle.

3) Additional drivers? If someone other than yourself or your spouse is driving the vehicle, always ask if there is an additional driver fee. Be advised that you, as the renter, are responsible for the safe return of the rental car in the same condition as received, except for normal wear and tear. As the renter, you are held responsible for damages which occur while the vehicle is in the custody of an unauthorized

4) Is unlimited mileage always your best deal? These rates tend to be higher and the geographical area in which the vehicle may be driven is still restricted. In order to choose the rate plan which represents your best value, it is helpful to know in advance how many miles you will be driving.

5) Weekend Rates or Not? Also when bargain-hunting, keep in mind that weekly and weekend rates can save you considerable money versus daily prices on a per-day basis.

6) Hidden charges? When renting a vehicle for insurance replacement purposes, be advised that insurance companies normally reimburse the renter by the calendar day. That is, you are expected to pay a full day's rate for any portion of the calendar day. For example, a car rented on a Tuesday at noon, and returned on Wednesday at noon, would be considered a two day rental by the insurance company.

7) Does your personal insurance cover your rental car? Before renting, contact your insurance company to see if your personal auto insurance covers you for the rental. When renting specialty vehicles like passenger vans. minivans, etc., it is wise to purchase the optional Collision Damage Waiver (which protects the renter from the cost of any damage repairs to the rental vehicle in the event of an accident). Many consumers erroneously think their personal auto insurance covers them on any rental vehicle, and that they do not need the added protection, but customers should contact their insurance companies to verify their coverage before renting a vehicle. U-Save Auto Rental currently has more than 450 locations in 46 states, Canada and Amman, Jordan.

Fine-tune your car audio system with top ten tips

As warm weather quickly approaches, there's no better time to drive around with the windows down, enjoying the fresh air and playing your favorite music. If you're tired of listening to the radio or if the hum from those factory speakers, you might think about a new car audio system or components to make your current system more dynamic.

"The large assortment of speakers and stereo components can make buying a new stereo system a daunting task," said Laurie Bauer, a spokesperson for Best Buy Co., Inc., a national retailer of consumer electronics, personal computers, entertainment software and appliances. "There are some specific questions consumers should ask themselves before buying a car stereo or updating their current sys-

In an effort to make shopping for a car stereo a little more fun and a lot easier, Best Buy has provided 10 tips to help in making a purchase, no matter what your budget.

1. System Quality - Consider what quality of system you want for your car. A complete package with all the accessories to make your car a "concert hall on wheels", or just enough sound to keep you happy during your morning commute. How do you like to listen to your music? Do you crank it up so everyone can hear or like it quiet in the background as you hum to yourself? Answering these questions will help you put together a system that makes the most sense for your listening habits.

2. Features - Think about what features are important to you. If you have varied music tastes, having a multiple CD changer may be a necessity. If reducing the likelihood of theft is a concern, you may want a detachable face unit or stereo with built-in security options. If you want to add more punch to your system in the future, the ability to add an external amplifier or subwoofer could be important. Knowing these answers ahead of time will help narrow your selection.

3. Preferred Medium - Know what medium you listen to the majority of your music by: cassette, CD, Mini Disc or just the radio. This will help you decide what type of in-dash stereo unit you need and determine other specifics important to the overall system.

4. Musical Elements - Think about what elements of music are most important to youthe crisp, clear tones from a jazz guitar or tight, pounding bass from the latest hip-hop tune. This can help you determine what type of speakers you need and how much power you want your system to pack.

5. Space Constraints - Understand the space constraints within your car. Know where your speakers are located, what size they are and how much room you have to add additional components.

Installation - Consider whether or not you need your new stereo professionally installed. Best Buy's Mobile Installation technicians are nationally certified and guarantee their workmanship for as long as you own your car. If you're a "do-it-yourselfer" they also have mounting kits and wiring harnesses to make the job easier.

7. Ease and Convenience - Don't underestimate how important it is for you to concentrate on the road without having to tinker with too many knobs and buttons.

8. Research Brands - Do a little research on the various car audio brands and what they offer. Best Buy carries car audio equipment from some of the top names in the business, including Pioneer, Sony, Rockford Fosgate and Clari-

9. Warranties - Understand the capabilities of your equipment and the warranties that are available. This is important in case you get too excited and blow your new speakers on the first

10. Test Configurations - Don't be afraid to test as many in-dash stereo units, speakers, amplifiers and subwoofers as you like-the more you try, the more you'll be able to compare and select what is right for you. Best Buy's car audio department let's you try out every-

2000 Yukon show truck sets new standards for full-size SUV design, capabilities

MC forged a new road to innovative SUV design with an all-new 2000 Yukon Show Truck. This truck provides a very solid glimpse of the next generation GMC fullsize SUV. Many of the features on the show truck will be available on the production Yukon. The Yukon Show Truck features unique GMC styling, world-class ride and handling, a substantial level of security and enhanced capabilities - all within a practical-sized package. It's now too large to fit in the garage or parking spaces.

This new Yukon offers power, precision and capability that exceeds customer requirements," said Yukon brand manager Dennis O'Donnell. "It's prepared in case drivers throw at it heavy towing, a lot of passengers or even unusually rough roads."

The Yukon's front-end design projects power and prominence. Its hood, fenders, bumper with special openings which provide additional radiator cooling, headlamps and grille, with its classic ruby red logo, are all uniquely GMC. The overall body contours are highly muscular.

The eight-passenger, four-wheel-drive Yukon Show Truck has a precision machined-quality appearance that reflects its upscale nature and extraordinary capabilities. Brushed metallic accent highlight its grille, bumper top, pull-bar door handles, running board step pads and recovery hooks. The high-strength, aerodynamic roof rack has a brushed chrome finish, and its six-spoke 17-inch wheels are brushed aluminum. The upper body color is pewter silver and the lower portion has a matte texture. Body-colored, integrated bodyside moldings, custom Michelin touring tires, smaller front and rear mud flaps and an oversized exhaust tip complete the exterior.

Yukon's interior carries forward the machined-quality appearance with a carbon fiber finish on the instrument panel bezel, door trim plates, console extension, overhead console and other select areas. Features of the richly appointed interior include:

•Front buckets, second-row 60/40 bench and a third-row split bench seat (new to the Yukon). The all-leather seats are shale-colored with pewter-colored suede inserts.

·A new power sliding/tilt glass sunroof with "express open" feature.

•The production vehicle features rear seat audio controls for a powerful new nine-speaker audio system with rear subwoofer.

Yukon exhibits world-class ride and handling which is one of the most impressive characteristics of this new vehicle. The 23-percent stiffer body and chassis, measured at 23 Hertz, along with its new independent front torsion bar and a rear fivelink coil suspension contributes to its extremely smooth ride.

With a wider track (2.4 inches more in the rear) and variable effort steering, the Yukon is more stable, agile and maneuverable in tight spots. Its turning radius has been reduced by more than three feet.

Yukon is nicely proportioned at 75.8" in height, 78.9" in width and 198.9" in length. However, Yukon's growth has come where it counts - not in exterior size, but with its extraordinary capabilities. They include:

 40% larger front brake pads and rotors for enhanced braking power and longer life.

•New vented rear disc brakes with twin piston calipers

•A larger, more accessible rear cargo opening and more durable, lightweight, allaluminum liftgate with liftglass — a major technological advancement for GM and the industry.

The Yukon provides superior safety as a result of being designed to both North American and international safety standards. Highlights include:

•Improved four-wheel disc brakes, an upgraded antilock braking system (ABS), plus Dynamic Rear Proportioning (DRP) reduce stopping distance and support Yukon's heavy towing/hauling capability.

 Seat-mounted side-impact air bags in the front row - not proyided by other vehicles in its class - that add another safety dimension.

New entry into car wax market promises more shine and more protection

Car waxing is a serious ritual from coast to coast this time of year. Checking out what is new in automotive waxes reveals that Armor All has added car wax to its lineup.

Through a $1 million investment in laboratory and consumer research, Armor All scientists have developed the ultimate product a wax that delivers brilliant high-gloss shine plus superior protection.

Armor All Car Wax contains Carnauba wax and other high-endurance ingredients, blended into a special emulsion that actually penetrates and bonds with car paint to deliver unbeatable performance. The coconut scented wax is especially easy to apply and buff off.

Armor All Car Wax Scores Tops In Tests Armor All's research and development lab conducted extensive product tests to ensure that the product's performance matches consumer demand. Special precision instruments measure durability to ensure maximum performance. When bench-marked against the competition in these tests Armor All Car Wax outperformed them all.

In the most telling test of all, over 1,000 consumers used Armor All Car Wax or one of the competitors in a blind test last year. The results? Consumers rated Armor All Car Wax superior to any of the other leading brands. Wax Benefits

Environmental exposure, like strong summer rays and dust, can dull car finishes. These weather conditions can break down clear coats and paint which in turn leads to oxidization. Over time, clear coats and paint get tiny scratches in the surface which take away shine. Wax creates a smooth finish by filling in the scratches and restoring shine. Wax also adds a protective layer between the car's paint and the elements. In the summer, wax helps protect paint from UV radiation, which means less fading and cracking.

Waxing cars at least every two months helps control the damage caused by the sun's rays. Cars routinely exposed to tough weather and road conditions should be waxed more frequently.

Hot Car Tips

To make sure cars look great and are protected from the elements this summer follow these waxing tips from the folks at Armor All: Wash cars regularly

Washing prevents surface dirt from building up and damaging paint when waxing. Use a specially formulated car wash like Armor All Car Wash Concentrate for future washings. Unlike household cleaners, these washes won't strip away a car's wax.

Wash and wax in the shade Wash cars in a shady spot and make sure it is completely cool before waxing. Also, make sure to wax cars out of direct sunlight. Use the right wax product

The ingredients in wax are a true sign as to its protection and shine abilities. Use the right car wax - Armor All car wax will give long-lasting protection and shine.

Apply the wax Applying wax in a thin and even coat with a sponge or soft terry cloth gives car paint a smooth finish.

Wax one section at a time.

Only wax one section of your car at a time, allowing the wax to dry completely to a haze. Remember not to apply wax to rubber or porous surfaces such as trim.

Buff lightly with a soft clean cloth to let the paint or clear coat shine through. Enhance

Enhance the color and gloss by going over the just-waxed car with a slightly damp soft cloth.

Heed your vehicle's warning signs

Three women stranded alongside I-24 near Nashville, Tennessee regretted having ignored the early warning signs of an overheated engine.

While the check engine light never turned on, they thought they detected that pungent smell that signals trouble. They had a leaking heater hose. Luckily a passing motorist donated enough antifreeze to their cause so they could limp into a service facility.

Not so lucky was the owner of this car, whose thumping tire long had been hollering for help. He had waited too long to find out why his car was shaking. When the tire failed, he discovered he had no spare, and there was no one who could help him.

Car Care Council emphasizes that most mechanical failures are avoidable.

First measure: preventive maintenance and, if needed, repair.

Next, be aware of unusual sensations, sounds and/or smells that suggest mechanical trouble.

The Council offers a brochure on emergency procedures such as changing a flat tire and jump starting the car. To receive your copy, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to:

lives of older drivers, according to an optometrist who has researched the matter. Surprisingly, it doesn't seem to matter what kind of vision-screening requirement a state has; just that they have one, says Dr. Melvin D. Shipp, a doctor of optometry and of public health at the University of Alabama at Birmingham School of Optometry.

In a study published last year in Optometry and Vision Science, Shipp looked at traffic fatality records from 1989 to 1991 in 48 states (Alaska and Hawaii were excluded) and the District of Columbia, as well as driver's license renewal requirements in those states.

States that require a vision-screening test for driver's license renewal may be saving the

He found that fatalities in collisions involving older drivers were higher in the 10 states that didn't require a vision-screening test for license renewal than in those that did require one. If eight of those 10 states had required vision testing for re-licensing, Shipp estimated that, conservatively, there would have been about a 12-percent reduction in traffic fatalities involving older drivers.

Shipp says most driving decisions are based on what a driver sees. However, age brings changes in vision that can affect driving ability. After age 65, people cannot usually see as clearly as they once did and often have difficulty seeing to drive at night. Their field of vision also may be reduced, affecting their ability to see other vehicles or pedestrians approaching from the side.

Shipp offers an explanation for why traffic fatalities involving older drivers significantly were lower in all the states with a vision-test requirement, regardless of whether the state simply checked sharpness of vision alone or did additional testing.

He says the existence of a state-mandated vision-screening test may prompt people to see their eye doctor before they go to the license bureau to renew their license. Some people may fear that they will fail the state test and lose their driver's license. So, they go to an eye-care professional first to find out if they will be able to pass the state test.

This works to their advantage because the vision tests done at license bureaus merely are vision screenings. An optometrist, on the other hand, provides a thorough eye examination covering both eye health and vision, plus treatment. People leave with the best possible vision for driving that they can achieve, as well as advice on how to compensate behind the wheel for age-related changes in vision that can't be corrected with prescription glasses.

A thorough eye exam also serves to identify the small number of older drivers whose vision has reached a stage where they are likely. to be a hazard to themselves and others. These drivers then may decide voluntarily to restrict their driving, Shipp says.

For more information on driving and vision, visit the American Optometric Association's Web site at http://www.aoanet.org.

According to the experts at the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE), automotive breakdowns occur frequently during the summer season. Summer's heat, dust, and stop-and-go traffic are tough on vehicles.

To help with summertime maintenance, ASE offers the following tips. Some are easy to do; others should be performed only by a skilled auto technician.

Getting started — The best planning guide is your owner's manual. Read it, and follow the manufacturer's recommended service schedules.

Air conditioning - A marginally operating air-conditioning system will fail in hot weather. Have the system examined by a technician who is ASE-certified in air-conditioning repair and service. You'll be doing the environment a favor, too, since poorly maintained air conditioners can leak ozone-depleting chemicals.

Cooling system — The greatest cause of summer breakdowns is overheating. The tightness and condition of drive belts, clamps and hoses should be checked by a pro. The cooling system should be completely flushed and refilled as recommended. The level, condition and concentration of the coolant should be checked periodically. (A 50-50 mix of antifreeze and water usually is recommended.) Do-it-yourselfers, wait until the engine has cooled before removing the radiator cap. Do not dump old antifreeze/coolant into streams or sewers.

Oil - Change your oil and oil filter as specified in your manual. Many repair shops will accept your used oil; never dump it on the ground or into streams or sewers.

Engine performance — Replace other filters (air, fuel, PCV, etc.) as recommended. Have engine driveability problems (hard starts, rough idling, diminished power, etc.) corrected at a good shop with modern testing equipment and ASE-certified technicians. In addition to getting better gas mileage, you'll help lessen air pollution by keeping your engine at peak performance.

Windshield wipers — A dirty windshield causes eye fatigue and can pose a safety hazard. Replace worn blades and keep plenty of windshield-washer solvent on hand to combat insects and road dust.

Tires — Tires should be rotated about every 5,000 miles. Check tire pressures once a month, but let the tires "cool down" first. Examine each tire for tread life, uneven wearing and cupping; check the sidewalls for cuts and nicks. An alignment is warranted if there's uneven tread wear or if your vehicle "pulls" on a flat, level roadway. Don't forget to check your spare and be sure the jack is in good condition. Properly maintained tires last longer, saving you money and reducing the burden at

The Blue Seal of Excellence® — Repair facilities with one or more ASE-certified technicians often display the ASE sign. There are more than 425,000 ASE-certified technicians at work across the nation.

EXCELLENCE

Let us show you their credentials

Brakes — Brakes should be inspected as recommended in your manual, sooner if you notice pulsations, grabbing, noises or longer stopping distance. Minor brake problems should be corrected promptly.

Battery — Batteries can fail any time of. year, not just in the winter. The only accurate way to detect a weak battery is with professional equipment, but most people can perform routine care: scrape corrosion from posts and cable connections, clean all surfaces, and re-tighten connections. If battery caps are removable, check the fluid level monthly. Wear protective eye gear and gloves.

Lights — Inspect all lights and bulbs and replace those that are burned out. Clean dirt and insects from all lenses, using a damp rag to prevent scratching.

Emergencies — Ask a technician for suggestions about which tools to carry. Be sure to include a first-aid kit, flares and a flashlight. Consider buying a car phone.

- Finding a good auto technician - To find a good technician, ask friends and associates for recommendations. Check out the reputation of the repair shop with your local consumer group, and look for technicians certified by ASE in the appropriate specialties, like brakes, engine repair, and heating and air conditioning. Shops with ASE-certified technicians often post their technicians' credentials and display the ASE blue-and-white sign. -

Keep travel safe and stress-free

While many people like the idea of taking a road trip, heading out on a long journey - whether by car, truck, minivan or RV - often can be a frustrating and stressful experience. To keep travel safe and as enjoyable as possible, make sure you are properly prepared by taking along a vehicle-emergency kit to keep family and friends safe while traveling.

Some useful basics include a flashlight, flares, a blanket, jumper cables, a first-aid kit, some nonperishable food items and bot-However, other items that you should consider include pocket-sized hand warmers for colder weather, a cellular phone and a good tire inflator.

Automotive experts at Prestone® also recommend a portable jump starter and power source. If you end up stranded with a dead battery, a jump starter like Prestone® Jump It!TM lets you jump-start your own vehicle without having to ask anyone for help. It's also a useful power source, which you can use to run cellular phones, lamps, heaters and many other useful household appliances. Just charge it from a regular outlet before you set off. Safety is only one stress factor associated with a long car trip. Being confined to a vehicle for several hours can be trying for even the most warm and caring families and friends. To help keep everyone entertained and content while traveling, you might want to consider a power inverter such as the Prestone® Jump It!TM power inverter. This converts the power of the car battery into household current, enabling motorists to

While there's no guarantee you won't encounter mishaps on the road, you can prepare for many of them, hopefully avoiding long delays and unsafe situations.

Transportation study gets mixed reviews

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI Regional Editor

It's too early to tell whether the controversial Route 53 project will ever happen, but debate is heating up once again after the state released a report of roadway improvement

The comprehensive package of roadway alternatives was presented last week by the Lake County Transportation Improvement Project. Several options are being considered to alleviate the anticipated future congestion crunch, including the possible extension of Route 53 as a freeway, tollway or an arterial roadway.

Environmental groups remain wary about the discussion of Route 53 as an option.

Leaf burning continues to raise more questions

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI

"We have oak trees out here that are over 130 feet tall," said Westfall, who lives in an unincorporated area of Vernon Township near Lincolnshire. "We've got leaves by the millions."

The issue of how people in unincorporated areas will dispose of leaves was one of the major concerns raised by residents at a public informational meeting held in Fremont Township. About 60 people attending the meeting, the first of three on the leaf burning question.

udy Schlacher, president of Washburn International, hopes to "put Mundelein on the map."

Washburn, a guitar manufacturing company, is in the process of completing its move to Mundelein. The company is consolidating three other plants from Vernon Hills, Chicago, and Elkhardt, Ind. The Mundelein office, to be located at 444 E. Courtland, will be home to over 200 employees for factory and office operations.

Mundelein will now become part of the company's 130-year history. Washburn began as part of Lyon & Healy and progressed towards being named Washburn International in 1987. In between were purchases of the Washburn name, the Great Depression, and bankruptcy. Manufacturing even stopped, as there were no Washburn instruments made between World War II and the early 1970s.

BURNING: Ban needs exemptions

The Lake County Administrator's Office and the Lake County Health Department gave a joint presentation on the leaf burning issue at the meet-

'We are recommending a ban, but we want to do it in such a way to minimize the impact on residents," said Marci Jumisko, research analyst for the County Administrator's Office. "To do that, we will start to work with residents to educate them about home composting and yard waste programs available through their waste haulers."

Some of the low-cost alternatives for residents are the shredding of leaves to use as yard mulch, or transporting the leaves to a compost facility, according to Jumisko.

Other options, Jumisko said, include some type of mechanical curbside pickup of leaves by local governmental units, or a bag collection program through private waste haulers.

County board member Diana O'Kelly (R-Mundelein) said many of and are very concerned how they will dispose of their leaves if a ban is implemented.

"You can't bag thousands of bushels of leaves," she said.

Fremont Township resident Victoria Freese said she does not burn her leaves but instead composts them for her garden. She said airbourne particles from leaf burning irritates her allergies and sometimes bothers her children.

Still, Freese said some of her neighbors burn their leaves and she opposes an outright ban.

"I'm allergic to grass too. I don't urge everyone to pull out every blade of grass," she said.

Freeze said she can understand the need to ban or restrict burning in heavily populated areas, but not in rural areas where there's huge volumes of leaves.

"You can't make laws to get rid of all these leaves," Westfall added. "It's ludicrous."

Cole supports banning leaf burning in unincorporated areas but said there may be the possibility for an exemption of agricultural properties or large rural lots with more than 5 acres.

Still, Cole believes a countywide ban is needed for health and air quality reasons. Cole spent six days in the hospital last fall after an asthma attack she says was triggered by leaf burning.

Cole said leaf burning is one of the reasons "we see so many hospital visits in the fall" of people with respiratory problems. She is particularly concerned about children whose lungs aren't fully developed and where an asthma attack can cause death.

"If we can save just one life by doing this, it's worth it," she said.

The County Board's Health and Human Services Committee will hold two more meetings on the leaf burning issue. The next meeting will be from 7 to 9 p.m. July 28 in the Grass Lake School Gym, 26177 W. Grass Lake Road, Antioch; and the final meeting will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Aug. County Board member Sandy 4 in the Grant Township Town Hall, group based in Chicago. He said the group agrees with the need for some of the proposed local road improvements identified in the state's report.

However, Truppa said Route 53 should not be considered as a solution to the county's traffic congestion problems.

"We certainly support improve-ments to local roads but the evidence on Route 53 is in. Route 53 would worsen congestion on local roads and future discussion of Route 53 is misguided. The state should concentrate on those areas that improve the county's infrastructure," he said.

Truppa said there are other roadway improvements that have been identified in the report that would better address traffic gridlock, such as the possibility of adding lanes to major arterials such as Routes 120, 22, 83 and 45. Truppa said he is encouraged only three of the eight models being considered by the state include Route 53 as an option.

Deb Giles, a Wauconda resident, is executive director of North Corridor Against the Tollway, a group opposed to building a new highway along the Route 53 corridor. Giles previously lived in Mundelein along the alignment being considered for Route 53.

Giles said it's too early to form an opinion of all of the state's proposed options until cost and environmental analyses are completed.

However, Giles believes one thing is clear: there are more effective ways to alleviate traffic congestion than building Route 53.

"Everybody agrees that a new Route 53 will accelerate population growth in Lake County," she said. "We've shown that this road affects everybody countywide, not just peo-ple who live along the right-a-way."

State officials point out, however, that the population of Lake County will increase, regardless of whether Route 53 is built.

The Illinois Department of Transportion estimates an additional 250,000 new residents will move to the county within the next 20 years. The proposed road improvements are an effort to address the traffic congestion problems that already exist and will continue to worsen if significant strides aren't made.

"You just can't ignore the tremendous population increases that are going to occur, regardless of the transportation system," said Dave Lutyens, director of the Lake County Transportation Improvement Project. The project is a joint effort between the Illinois Department of Transportation and the Illinois State Toll Authority to identify ways to best address the county's long-term traffic congestion needs.

MUSIC: Washburn moves

moved to Northbrook in 1978, and then to Buffalo Grove in 1985.

Now, offices in Chicago, Vernon Hills, and Elkhardt, Ind., will be consolidated in Mundelein. Rudy Schlacher, president, is excited about the move.

"Mundelein has a very nice, small-town flavor without being too far-removed from activity," said Schlacher. "We have been treated very well so far by the village."

Schlacher, who has been involved with the company since 1975, said the village has been instrumental in helping Washburn with the complicated move. Operations have begun in the old Decorel building. However, much work still needs to be done. Schlacher said approximately $2 million worth of refurbishing has been done. Yet not everything has been taken out of boxes.

The building itself is an architectural marvel. Designed by Don Erikson, a student of Frank Lloyd Wright, the building once had glass ceilings which have since been replaced for safety reasons. Upon walking into the building, one is greeted by a wall of mirrors. The stairways to the second level seem to float in mid-air.

Schlacher, who lives in a Frank

Lloyd Wright home, said the architecture attracted him to the build-

"There was an immediate connection," said Schlacher. "And it has the possibility to expand if we need it.

On the main level is the manufacturing area.

"We do everything from 'A' to 'Z,'" said Schlacher.

The creation of a guitar at Washburn begins with a piece of lumber which is then cut into the shape of the guitar. The guitar is assembled, buffed, painted, and tested, all within the Washburn facility.

The company also makes speakers, with the enclosures being hand-made at the facility.

"There's a lot of hard work involved," said Schlacher. "I'm very proud of the workers here."

While the move to Mundelein has been a challenge, with many things left to be completed, Schlacher is enthusiastic.

"This is just the beginning of things," said Schlacher. "We have to put our heads together. We're trying to put Mundelein on the map and provide reasons for people to come to downtown Mundelein."

Longmeyer said the show is completely changed from last year, with Scott Taylor taking over as ringmaster, leading everyone on a magical tour.

"We have about 50 people in the show," he said. The animals in the circus include four Asian elephants, ponies, dogs and reticulated pythons.

Taylor will introduce acts from all four corners of the globe.

Of note is the Crissoni Duo, which appears to defie gravity and death while suspended 30 feet above the circus ring. Other performers include Ms. Sashi, who spins on the Spanish web, and Mr. Marco Polo, who has an incredible act involving champagne glasses, swords and a 35-foot ladder.

"We show to over 1 million children a year," he said. "We do about, I would say, 15 states and we open in January and we close in October."

"It is a wonderful show," he said. One thing that has not changed about the circus is how the big top is

Children are invited to come out at 9 a.m. July 9 and watch for free as the elephants raise the large yellowand-red striped circus tent, 120-foot long, 90 feet wide and 40 feet tall at its highest point.

"It is a one-ring, European-style big top," Longmeyer said.

"Our tent seats around 1,200 peobargain for family entertainment. Tickets are sold at the door for $8. All seats are general admission. Two children ages 12 and under will be admitted free with one paid adult ticket, Longmeyer said.

"A family can go with four kids for $16 bucks," he said.

The Midway of the circus opens one hour before showtime.

When the circus leaves Grayslake, it is headed west to the McHenry County Fairgrounds in Woodstock, for a 3 p.m. July 11 performance and 5:30 and 7 p.m. shows July 12.

Dist. 118 adopts film policy

Wauconda-Children who wish they can see the R-rated "South Park" film at the movie theater may be disappointed when they cannot also see some films shown in their class-

Wauconda Unit District 118 amended its instructional materials policy to increase regulations on showing of entertainment films to students.

Children will need to have signed parent permission slips in order to see films above their age level, according to the Motion Picture Association of America rating system.

The slips will include space for parents to tell teachers they do not want their child to see the film.

Group petitions for transient living

Grayslake—The developers of the conservation Prairie Crossing housing development have changed their plans to meet current needs.

The group has petitioned the village to alter its approved Planned Unit Development of 1993 to include a "transientoriented" sector in the southwest corner of the 677 acres parcel. Plans to build 317 homes would be changed to include at least 115 other units, such as 83 less expensive single-family homes, 32 "live-work" buildings, an undetermined number of "granny flats"—apartments over garages, and a bed and breakfast.

The southwest corner is at Route 137 and Casey Road, and is near a proposed Metra train station. The Grayslake Board of Trustees will review the concept plan at its July 20

Annexations win nod from board

Fox Lake—A group of 15 property owners prefer the course that Fox Lake is choosing for the future rather than that of neighboring Volo.

Fox Lake trustees unanimously approved the annexations at the July 6 village board meeting. The properties are largely in and around the Holiday Park and Nippersink Road area.

The property owners were "taking a stand against Volo. There was a lot of misinformation going around. People were concerned about losing their fiefdoms, and had something to lose. The reputation of the town of Fox Lake is very good," Lex Provenzano said.

Fox Lake Mayor James Pappas said the annexations came on a voluntary basis.

Dog Wash Express opens in Gurnee Gurnee—A new Gurnee business is sure to leave your dog spotless.

Dog Wash Express, located at 750 S. Milwaukee Ave, offers a self-serve dog washing facility with waist-high, slip-resistant tubs, ramps to walk dogs up to the tub, aloe and specialty shampoos, brushes, towels, ear cleaner, pet fragrance, rubber aprons, and toe nail clips.

The facility, which has been open for approximately two weeks, has specially-designed tubs which allow the owner to move around all sides of the dog. The water is temperature-

'There's more that can be done for the health of the dog," said Karen Nasello, owner.

The facility also offers dryers which remove the moisture from the skin and help with shedding.

"We're trying to complete the process here," said Nasello. The cost for a regular self-service dog wash is $12 for most pets. The cost for large or hairy dogs is $16. The hours are Tuesday through Friday from 11 a.m. until 8 p.m. The facility is open on Saturdays from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. and Sundays from noon until 5 p.m.

Dog Wash Express is located two miles north of the Lake County Forest Preserve Dog Training Park. For more information, call 918-9777.

Mundelein girls win pageants

Mundelein—Three Mundelein girls are on top of the world after participating in the annual beauty pageants, held July 1, 2, and 3.

Kristen Wallace, 8, a third-grader at Mechanics Grove Elementary School, was crowned as Little Miss Mundelein.

Lauren Makris, 13, an eighth-grader at Carl Sandburg Middle School, was crowned Junior Miss Mundelein.

Ariele Loizeaux, 16, a junior at Mundelein High School, was crowned Miss Mundelein.

Each of the girls won a cash prize. Wallace took home $200, Makris won $250, and Loizeaux won $350. They also received crowns, banners, trophies, and other gifts.

Loizeaux will now proceed to the Lake County Fair Queen Contest on July 7, where the top prize is $1,000. Both Makris and Wallace will represent Mundelein in pageants at the Lake County Fairgrounds on July 28 and 29.

Rodeo rides into town

Wauconda—A Wauconda summer tradition will continue this weekend as the 36th annual IPRA Championship Rodeo takes place Friday through Sunday.

Golden Oaks Equestrian Center will once again be the site, with several events planned, starting at 8 p.m. Friday July 9.

The event traces its heritage in Wauconda to 1963, its first year at the American Legion Hall. Attendance comes from a three-state area, and with some controversy included as the pro-rodeo supporters and the animal rights backers exchange

"I think Wauconda is the best outdoor rodeo in the state. We expect 3-4,000 people each year," according to an organizer, Bill Latting of Latting Productions in Robbins, Ill.

Village may not require attendants

Antioch—The Village of Antioch is looking into no longer requiring attendants at coin laundromats. Following a request by a local laundromat owner, the village is obtaining information from the Coin Laundry Operators Association on the success of using security cameras in place of persons.

Presently, the village requires an attendant be on the premises during the laundramat's operating hours.

Grandwood Park holds SummerFest Gurnee—It's SummerFest time in Grandwood Park!

The "village within a village" in Gurnee will hold its annual SummerFest extravaganza beginning at 5 p.m. July 9. The event is sure to be fun for all, as entertainment will be offered on both July 9 and 10. The Flares will perform on July 9, and Cold Sweat will perform on July 10.

A fireworks display will light up the sky on July 10 at dusk. This year's fireworks extravaganza will be bigger and better than last year's display. This year's fireworks were sponsored by the Grandwood Park Park District and Raymond Chevrolet-Olds in Antioch, said Art Thompson, vice president of the Grandwood Park Civic Association.

After the fireworks display, at around 10 p.m., the drawing will be held for the SummerFest raffle. Raffle tickets are still being sold at $1 each or six for $5. Prizes include a Marriott getaway, 27-inch color television, $200 cash, and a Great America package. For information on purchasing raffle tickets, call Colleen Veenhuis at 356-2208.

SummerFest will run from 5 p.m. until midnight on July 9 and noon until midnight on July 10.

The event is open to the public.

Grandwood Park is located on Grand Avenue just east of Route 45.

RLHS cheerleaders threatened

Round Lake-Round Lake High School is on full security as the result of Internet threats toward the cheerleading squad.

According to reports, on June 29, a Chicago resident in an Internet chat room saw several threatening statements directed at RLHS cheerleaders. The resident reported the findings to the Round Lake Police Department.

The State's Attorney's Office has been conducting a formal investigation, and has subpoenaed Internet providers to track down the identity of the perpetrator.

Police Chief Charles Foy said they are in the process of interviewing a suspect, whom they believe may be a disgruntled former student, but that they do not have enough evidence to make an arrest yet. He also said the threats originated from the search engine Yahoo!

Although school and police officials have declined comment on the nature of the threats pending completion of the investigation, they are taking no chances on security. Uniformed officers will be present at all sports events and practices, and the school will have only one entrance open, which will be guarded. Anyone on school grounds without license to be there is subject to arrest. Police are also offering escorts for cheerleaders and other athletes to and from practice.

Mayor sues board, village attorney

Wadsworth-Mayor Evelyn Hoselton is taking her board of trustees and the village attorney to court.

In May, Hoselton attempted to appoint Waukegan attorney George Riseborough, as village attorney. The trustees voted five to zero to disapprove that appointment. Believing there to be a vacancy of the position due to the end of former Mayor Don Craft's term, Hoselton advised the board that she was then going to appoint Riseborough temporary attorney. The board refused to acknowledge this appointment.

The trustees have taken the position that they have the right to approve or deny a temporary appointment of village attorney, or any appointment for that matter. Present Village Attorney John Mullen has said the village attorney remains in office until someone is appointed to replace him. The board believes that Mullen remains in office until they can all concur on the appointment.

Hoselton claims she has the right to make Riseborough temporary village attorney without the advice and consent of the trustees to serve until she makes a permanent appointment with their advice and consent. The Circuit Court of Lake County will make the decision for them.

Train accident kills local friar Libertyville—A regular bike route tragically ended in the death of a Marytown friar, Brother Robert McLuskie.

On Thursday, July 1 at approximately 2:17 p.m., McLuskie was hit by an eastbound, three-car Canadian Pacific freight train, Detective Robert Uliks said. McLuskie was riding his bike northbound on Milwaukee Avenue and was struck by the train on the south side of the intersection at Milwaukee Avenue and the Metra railroad crossing.

According to Detective Uliks, eyewitnesses said the warning gates were in the process of lowering.

The point of impact was on the west side of Milwaukee Avenue. McLuskie was thrown from his bike and landed on the east side of the Milwaukee Avenue median. The front tire of his bike was torn from the bike and dragged 100 feet down the track from the point of impact. The rear car of the train finally stopped approximately 120 feet from the point of impact, Detective Uliks said.

McLuskie, who had vital signs at the scene, was transported to Condell Medical Hospital in Libertyville at approximately 2:45 p.m., Sharon Reich, nursing supervisor at Condell,

At 4:10 p.m., physicians and hospital staff were evaluating his condition and had McLuskie in x-rays, according to Reich. According to Coroner Barbara Richardson, McLuskie was pronounced dead at 6:25 PM. The cause of death was severe head injuries, Richardson said.

Citizen crusaders gain satisfaction as plans change

onsidering the heavy hand of government and energysapping bureaucracy in the public sector, even at the grassroots level, it isn't often that dissident citizen groups can chalk up confrontation with the establishment with thumbs-up satisfaction.

But that seems to be exactly the case where a group of parents and taxpayers dissatisfied with the way their high school was being run stand today.

Banding together under a catchy anacronym B.E.S.T.— Better Education, Sensible Taxes— nearly 10 years ago an organization of citizens in the Antioch area took on high school leadership from the superintendent and board of education to a largely supportive citizenry. B.E.S.T. looked into just about every phase of school operation. Members were particularly displeased with curriculum, student discipline, fiscal management and plans to alleviate a classroom shortage.

They voiced their displeasure to the school board, teachers' union, parents, community leaders and the press. B.E.S.T. became known for incisive pamphlets and brochures. To say B.E.S.T. was politically active would be a gross understatement. Publication of position papers and in-depth studies of complicated bond questions were favored by the B.E.S.T. leadership over garden-variety complaining. The organization backed like-minded candidates. Not so surprisingly, leaders of the Antioch education establishment were incensed. Labeling B.E.S.T. members as over-the-edge uninformed kooks was among the more mild retorts.

The straw that broke the camel's back as far as B.E.S.T. was concerned was a $38 million bond issue for construction of a new high school in a rural area between Antioch and Lindenhurst that would have cost $72 million with interest payments over the life of the bond issue. Taxpayers rebelled, soundly trouncing the financial plan. A funny thing followed. Because of their strong positions and vigorous campaigning, citizens began taking heed of B.E.S.T. New faces were elected to the school board. A new superintendent was hired. A remodeling plan at a cost of approximately $10 million underwritten with a state grant replaced the massive relocation plan.

The new superintedent, Dr. Dennis Hockney, has been hailed as revitalizing the school and restoring confidence of the community. When the fall term begins, an extensively remodeled building with an expanded campus will be in operation to catch up with curriculum advancements installed by Hockney and his team of education professionals. Controversy over direction of the school is but a distant memory.

Alan Knutson, a past president of B.E.S.T., marvels at the transformation of Antioch High, both physically and academically. "It's exactly what we envisioned," exclaimed Knutson, a life-long resident and father of five ACHS graduates.

Not every citizen adventure into dissent reaches a satisfactory conclusion. But it can happen as in the case of B.E.S.T. And when it does, there is a happy ending—for everyone.

VIEWPOINT

Summer spells markets, fair

ean Larson, one of Lake County's most capable and dedicated historians, has restored an old placard providing evidence that fairs and open air markets have been a big part of local life for 150 years.

Larson's discovery listed events and premiums being offered for the Lake County Agriculture and Horticultural Society's Exhibition and Fair Sept. 23 and 24, 1857, at Waukegan. The poster noted that activities would be preceded by a plowing match at Libertyville two days earlier.

The original poster, 21 x 28 inches, is in the archives of the Libertyville-Mundelein Historical Socity. It was printed on a steam powered press. Larson, a retired Libertyville High School teacher and former village board member, happily distributes replicas.

County residents at the time really put agriculture under close scrutiny, offering $6, the top premium, in competition for the best managed farm. Only other premium of equal value was awarded for the best stallion. The best bull and cow were awarded a premium of $5 each.

Best pair of matched working oxen would fetch $3. The outstanding plowman also was awarded $3. Of grain products, wheat was king with a $4 top prize. Lake County was surprisingly diverse in grain products 150 years ago with farmers growing oats, corn, barley, rye and buckwheat.

Sugar cane also was grown in those days to produce sugar and molasses. Domestic "manufacturing" was recognized in competition for homemade carpeting, flannel, quilts, woolen hosiery and woolen yarn.

The agriculture society was well organized with Lake County's leading families in leadership roles. The list of chairmen and committee members of the pre-Civil War fair reads like who's who of the county. Admission to the 1857 exposition was a whopping 25 cents. Children under 12 were admitted for 10 cents. Members and their families got in free.

Wars, politics and economic conditions have dictated when and where Lake County fairs were located. Grayslake has been home to the Lake County Fair since 1956. Other locations include Libertyville, Wauconda, Gurnee and Antioch.

Today's fair, a fixture in July, can trace its ancestry to 1851. The 1999 edition opens July 27 for a six-day

Now, with farmers' markets being a colorful part of practically every community during the summer, Lake County residents are never very far from a rich agricultural heritage.

Home body

Larry Rouse always joked that he only got seven miles from home. Not quite. Maybe in his family and professional life, but during World War II he fought with Patton's army in the Black Forest of Germany and won two Purple Hearts as an infantry sergeant.

Outside of working in the Rouse family dairy in Mundelein as a youth, the only job Larry ever had was at Grayslake High School where he joined the original faculty after college on the GI Bill. The lifetime position included 35 years as superintendent, giving him one of the longest tenures in Lake County secondary school history. With today's mobility among educators, that's a record that might never be challenged.

Fifteen years ago, Larry was overtaken by a rare spinal ailment, an illness that left him bedridden for the last six months of his life. The affliction was especially vexing for someone used to crowding more than 18 hours of school and community activity into each day's schedule. Larry Rouse was comfortable leaving his mark without being a world traveler.

Burning question

Dale Galassie, director of the Lake County Health Dept., bridles at the notion that he's a no-holds-barred opponent of leaf burning. Galassie was a high profile speaker at the first of three west Lake County meetings on dealing with a proposed ban for unincorporated areas and he'll doubtlessly be speaking at upcoming meetings at Grass Lake School on July 28 and Grant Town Hall, Ingleside, on Aug.4.

At a pre-July 4 holiday meeting at Fremont Township, rural Mundelein, Galassie mentioned a possible compromise-establishing pre-arranged burning dates. That sounds nice until realizing that Mother Nature rarely cooperates on providing advance notice for ideal burning dates much less advising when the leaves will fall. County Board Rep. Bonnie Thomson-Carter has vowed to have the Grant Township meeting moved to a larger location. The 100-year-old town hall has room for only about 55 persons.

Bigger hospitals

Stiff competition between Lake County's hospitals is of long standing. The goal is always getting bigger and better. An inquiry at Lake Forest Hospital into an alliance with world-renowned Mayo Clinic still is in the speculation stage while the announcement is sinking in of a merger between Highland Park Hospital and Evanston Northwestern Healthcare.

Obliging jurist

Congratulations to Circuit Judge Henry C. Tonigan III who is heading into his second term after re-election as chief of the 19th Judicial Circuit covering Lake and McHenry counties. Tonigan, 49, is carrying on a tradition of the 19th chiefs being in contrast to stereotypical "stuffy" jurists. Judge Toni-gan, whose nickname is "Skip," often obliges civic groups desiring to have a genuine judge in black robe. preside over new officer installations. If the occasion fits, Judge Tonigan has been known to show up wearing shorts and a casual polo shirt to officiate at a benefit marathon run.

Maritime museum

Following up comments in this column about the important role played by Great Lakes shipping in Lake County history, comes word of interest in establishing a maritime museum in Waukegan. Great ideal The facility would compliment the Navy museum that has been receiving rave notices ever since it opened last year at Great Lakes Naval Training Center. Being situated on salt water obviously isn't a requirement for having a rich "sea going" tradition.

University committee tainted by stacked deck

Then I wrote in this column way back in November of last year that the University Center proposed for Lake County was so important for us that we shouldn't fight as much for the site as to getting it somewhere in the county. I meant it then. I meant it even though I had a "gut feeling" that the site selection process was "stacked" in favor of putting the Center at the College of Lake County.

The process has so prostituted communities who were in the running for the multi-university center and it all swelled up inside of me that I had to speak out. I did so at the last board meeting of CLC. By the way, I have not been among the first who have said that the site selection was a "stacked deck." Round Lake Beach Mayor Ralph Davis was the first to say it when his community was overlooked.

You can say that it was natural for Mayor Davis to cry "foul" when his community was turned down. But what really bothered me was when I read the process before the Illinois Board of Higher education and he was told to "put it down in writing." That is the typical brush-off by government agencies. In other words, they are saying that "we don't want you to make an issue of it in a public forum," or "put it in writing so our law counsel can put a legalistic spin to it." But, what it told me was that they must have had a "guilt complex" about the charge.

As I have written in this column, my first choice for the multi-university site has always been the Lakehurst site and my second choice was CLC. So, what happened to turn me so vocally against the process?

When the City of Waukegan held a special city council meeting to authorize providing $3 million outright to Lake County to help the county's obligation to share half with the state the cost of the Center, I thought that it was a positive commitment by the city. Not only that, the city of Waukegan offered to loan the county another $3 million dollars, interest free, for the project.

So, what was the public response from the Illinois Board of Higher Education to the City of Waukegan's bold action? The Chairman of the Site Selection Committee said it was a "futile gesture" and "I would think that Waukegan could find better ways to spend $3 million."

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Porter: Looking at Dole for president

O'Kelly: Irked at demise of public hearing

LaBelle: Urges restraint when talking about university site.

Early Bush push forecast for Lake GOP

his is Bush country. George Even supporters of other presidential hopefuls acknowledge the popularity in Illinois of the Texas governor.

Rod McCulloch, a highly respected pollster for conservative causes, sees the Lake County Republican establishment led by Chairman John Schullen, swinging behind Bush early as the party did for Dole in 1996.

Congressman John Porter reportedly wants Republicans of all stripes to look closely at Elizabeth Dole. Al Salvi, who has proved twice that he can win the GOP prize in spring, but not the big dance in November, is on Vice President Dan Quayle's finance committee.

So not everyone is joining the Bush parade.

O'Kelly wants record

County Board Rep. Diana O'Kelly (R-Mundelein) is irked that an administrative decision changed scheduled leaf burning hearings to meetings, a significant difference in consequence because no official record is maintained. O'Kelly maintains 50 some constituents turning out at Fremont Town Hall made. some telling arguments against burning that were deserving of being recorded.

Observers said opinion was two to one against county plans to ban leaf burning in unincorporated areas. Other planned meetings include July 28 at Grass Lake School and Aug. 4 at Ingleside, Both meetings are set for 7 p.m.

Tone it down

County Board Chairman Jim LaBelle urged his fellow board members to use restraint when talkposed multi-University Center should be located.

"I am particularly concerned with the tone that the public debate is taking on this issue and the potential impact on the future of the project," LaBelle said in a memo to board members.

LaBelle, who personally supports the Lakehurst site, said board members are entitled to express their own views but should not try to interfere with the site selection process established by the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

The state board is considering three sites for the University Center-The College of Lake County in Grayslake, Lakehurst Shopping Center in Waukegan and a downtown site in Mundelein.

At a legislative breakfast, LaBelle said the board adopted a resolution in support of the University Center project, whichever of the three sites is chosen.

'We just want to make it clear that board members' individuals positions are just that. We don't want to give the impression that we won't support the project if it's located at one site versus another."

Will Gov. Bush open mouth, insert foot?

labbergasted and frustrated by his overwhelming popularity in the polls and people's pocketbooks, George W. Bush's dozen-or-so Republican presidential rivals are hoping he will say something stupid.

Something like his father was famous for. Like after a debate with Geraldine Ferraro, when George H. Bush beamed for the media and announced, "We kicked some butt!"

Or after Democrat Walter Mondale, feeling insulted during a debate, said, "George Bush doesn't have the manhood to apologize."

And Bush fired back: "Well, on the manhood thing, I'll put mine up against his any time."

It's a long, bumpy road from now until November of 2000, and slips of the tongue can stumble and tumble candidates like banana peels on a sidewalk.

Take it from Gerald Ford who, in a speech during the 1976 campaign. said, "Jimmy Carter speaks loudly and carries a fly spotter, a fly swasher — it's been a long day."

That's from a book I just took from the shelf, "The 776 Stupidest Things Ever Said." It includes 16 doozies from the read-my-lips of former President Bush, plus a dozen dumb remarks each by Reagan and Nixon, and a few by Ford.

"The Stupidest Things Ever Said" were compiled by a writing couple, Ross and Kathryn Petras. But their obsessive focusing on Nixon, Ford, Reagan and Bush, while not including in their book anything from Roosevelt, Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson or Carter, begs the question:

Didn't any of those guys ever say anything stupid?

Oh, well, as Mason said to Dixon, "We have to draw the line somewhere," and the book is fun.

Aha, but between its covers we discover that some of George W. Bush's current Republican rivals have been guilty of the kind of stupid remarks they are hoping to hear from him.

THE PFARR CORNER Jerry Pfarr

Elizabeth Dole is quoted from when she was Secretary of Labor under George H. Bush: "The president doesn't want any yes-men and yeswomen around him. When he says no, we all say no."

Orrin Hatch, the Republican senator from Utah, explained his support of the death penalty like this: "Capital punishment is our society's recognition of the sanctity of human life."

And the much-maligned Dan Quayle is quoted no less than 17 times. For example, when he was vice president, he delivered this blunder: "I recently was on a tour of Latin America, and the only regret I have was that I didn't study Latin harder in school so I could converse with those people."

In the next 16 months we can expect a volley of new goofy gaffes. Just recently, Vice President Al Gore, who wants to be our next leader, claimed he created the Internet, and then predicted the impeached Bill Clinton will go down in history as one of our greatest presidents.

Oh, sure, you betcha, and the Cubs will win the pennant.

So now ex-President Bush's son, the governor of Texas, is being pursued by the Word Police who are poised to pounce on his slightest faux pas.

I'm sure glad none of the dumb things I say will ever appear in a newspaper (except, come to think, this column).

FROM PAGE C4

SEEING: CLC has odds stacked in its favor

When I saw that remark "putting down" a whole community, I was infuriated. I called the Executive Director of the Board of Higher Education and said that such a comment is inexcusable and for anyone to make it ought to disqualify the person from public service on such a board. I said that I represented the people of Waukegan for 26 years and that I wasn't going to take such a remark "sitting down." Also, I told the Director that as long as I had him on the phone, I wanted to tell him that I believed that from the start the site selection was stacked in favor of CLC and they have "used" other communities in the process. And I said that I would pursue further the "stacked deck." My sources later informed me that he, too, helped "deal the cards."

At the CLC board meeting, I talked about my feeling that any CLC property owned by us taxpayers should be used for the future expansion of CLC only. After all, we are said to be the fastest growing county in the country and I am sure that CLC will continue to "bust at the seams." Virtually everyone that I have talked to, and that includes citizens who live in communities near Grayslake have told me that they don't want the extra traffic that 5,000-plus students would bring to the area. Even the report from the Capital Development Board lists the absence of any major arterial highway as a drawback to the CLC site.

More than a time or two, I have heard GLC President Gretchen Naff say that the CLC land to be used for the University Center would be an outright contribution, a donation. Now that we are raising the "taxpayer issue," she seems to be revising that by saying that CLC would lease the property rather than make it a "gift." In any event, it invites a taxpayer suit.

Also, I told the Board that most public institutions worry about their public image. It is not in CLC's best public image to proclaim that "it's all right" to build on a wetland. And I don't buy the static that you can replace a natural wetland through "mitigation" and manufacturing an artificial wetland "a few acres away."

The point is that the people in Lake County who have become a potent voice in preserving our environment "will not stand still" and watch a natural wetland destroyed in their backyard. With no objections, the permitting process through EPA and the Corps of Engineers will get a minimum of two years and if formal objections and suits come up, that increases the time-frame to a minimum of four years. That is four years that a Multi-University Center could be "up and running" at Lakehurst.

I have talked to ordinary citizens who have told me that when they call the Board of Higher Education to tell them why Lakehurst would be a better site than CLC, the staff at the Board displays a bias towards CLC. It's no wonder. I did tell the CLC Board that their "representative" is in constant communication with the Board of Higher Education, an advantage that no other site enjoys.

I could go on in greater length about what I said at the CLC Board, but I believe that the point is clear. This has not been a fair process. When people have been taken advantage of, I have always spoken out. When communities have been taken advantage of, I have spoken out. That's what this is all about, and I also believe that a "free standing" multi-university center at Lakehurst would be advantageous for all of Lake County.

While the regular CLC Board was doing its business, I took some peeks at the CLC student newspaper, the Chronicle. It is a good newspaper, and the students should be commended for it. But I did mention to the gentleman seated next to me," I wonder why they publish it in Palos Heights rather than somewhere in Lake County."

But, what I really liked was on the front page, a quotation attributed to Pilfers in bold, capital letters. It read: IF YOU TURN A BLIND EYE, YOU'RE JUST AS GUILTY AS THE CULPRIT. THE INNOCENT ARE SURE TO DIE, SO RISE UP AGAINST INJUSTICE."

I showed the quotation to the guy next to me and said, "Now, isn't that apropos?"

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Housing boom is double-edged sword

ecent newspaper articles about the housing boom across Lake County can certainly be verified by statistics from the Lake County Recorder's office. In 1998, an all-time record for annual recorded documents was reached with 200,605 documents being recorded. The numbers for 1999 are already matching that record and may even exceed it. From an historical perspective, it took 114 years to record the first million documents in Lake County, 21 years for the second million, 11 years to reach 3 million, seven years to reach 4 million (on July 31, '97) and we are already over the third of the way to 5 million in less than two years.

The good news is these record breaking volumes translate into additional revenue for the County taxpayers. In 1998 the Recorder's budget realized revenues of almost $6 million. (Our expenses for that year were only $1.5 million.) All the additional revenue goes to the County General Fund to supplement vital county services such as police protection, court services and health

However, observing the "Housing Boom" first hand prompts me to agree with our newspaper editors and development analysts who encourage all our Lake County communities to plan our growth carefully. We must consider the impact on our quality of life—especially when it relates to affordable housing, schools, traffic and public safety.

Please know that my staff and I stand ready to assist with any data needed to plan appropriately. We must not forget that while Lake County is the finest community in the nation, providing great economic strength, there is also a sense of urgency and a great need to preserve our natural resources.

Fight back against computer vision syndrome

Your boss may not be the cause of your recurrent headache after all. You may be one of the estimated 60 million computer users who suffer from the eyestrain, headaches and musculoskeletal problems associated with Computer Vision Syndrome (CVS).

Now you can do something about it, thanks to Bausch & Lomb, the world's leader in eye care. The company has just developed a breakthrough peripheral that is specifically designed to help fight these symptoms. It's called the PC Magni-ViewerTM and it's available nationwide for the retail price of $295.

The revolutionary PC Magni-Viewer is the world's first acrylic optical lens personal computer magnification system. Designed to help millions of PC users see more onscreen information, more clearly than ever before, the unit enlarges on-screen information up to 175 percent, offers multiple adjustments for customized monitor viewing, and allows PC users to automatically position themselves in an ergonomically correct work pos-

Many computer users are under the impression that their vision problems will be solved with a larger monitor, yet this simply is not true. The reduced need for near focusing allows the unit to produce an image that looks like it is 33 to 60 inches away from the user (depending on placement), much farther than the 18 to 24 inches typical for a video-display terminal. A 15-inch monitor provides an image equivalent to a 40-inch monitor placed 3 feet away.

The completely adjustable, stylishly designed two-piece magnification system features a 191/2-inchlong-by-15-inch-wide 360-degree rotating base that sits underneath any 13-inch, 15-inch or 17-inch PC monitor, an adjustable swivel-arm that extends over the top of the monitor, and an adjustable 6-inch-by-8-inch acrylic lens that weighs only 25 ounces.

For order information, call 1-800-553-5340 or visit the Web site at www.bauschvision.com.

Tips for summer festivals: American Heart Association offers way to expand your palate — not your waistline

The summer festival season has begun, and mouths are watering just imagining the aroma of chargrilled red hots, the sizzle of barbecued ribs, the sight of fudge-coated cheesecake on a stick and the tastes of other delectables available at many of summer's community festivals.

But with so many delicious options, many festival attendees may be tempted to overindulge — which can result in feeling of guilt over a diet gone awry, says the American Heart Association.

But all is not lost. Fest-goers are encouraged to look at the "big picture" when planning and evaluating their diets.

"The American Heart Association's dietary guidelines emphasize the characteristics of the total diet—over several days or a week—rather than one eats in any given

Provena Saint Therese Laboratory Services earns accreditation

Provena Saint Therese Medical Center has been granted accreditation by the American Association of Blood Banks (AABB), according to Elaine Pape, director of laboratory services at the hospital.

Accreditation follows an intensive on-site assessment by specially trained representatives of the AABB and establishes that the level of medical, technical and administrative performance within the facility meets or exceeds the standards set by the AABB. By successfully meeting those requirements, Provena

Saint Therese joins more than 2,000 similar facilities across the nation and abroad that have earned AABB accreditation.

AABB accredition is voluntary.
The AABB is a professional society and has been engaged in the accreditation of blood banks and transfusion services since 1958.
AABB member facilities are responsible for collecting virtually all of the nation's blood supply and for transfusing more than 80 percent of the blood used for patient care in the United States.

Teaching children to respect animals

Dear Dr. Singer,

We live in an area in which there is a lot of wildlife and I have seen my children as well as other children become curious about the animals. I have seen other kids in our neighborhood cause problems for animals like frogs. My children do not bother these animals, but I would like to see if maybe there is a good way to present this wildlife to our children so that they learn about them and not try to hurt them. M.T.

Dear M.T.,

All kids are curious about things they have never seen at a close distance before. As a person who loves animals, I have a definite perspective on this. I think it is imperative for all parents to teach their children about animals, whether wild or domestic. I have also seen kids hurt animals out of both curiosity, going too far, and the lack of understanding of anothers' perspective. You see, it is my opinion that many parents feel that a child's attitude toward animals just develops on it's own. I am here to tell you that it doesn't. We need to teach our kids respect and compassion for those weaker and smaller than us through example and discussion. We also need to teach them that sometimes even the smallest of creatures can have a doozie of a defense system and conditions such as Rables (although I understand that recently, there haven't been any cases reported,) and/or Salmonella.

PARENT'S PLACE

There are two important areas that are good to teach. These are: respect of animals and protection of self. All animals, wild and domestic are deserving of their own space and prevention of harm. When a child becomes too rough with a domestic animal such as a dog or a cat, it is a great time to explain to the child what that would feel like to the animal. Helping a child to take the animal's perspective helps to develop a sense of empathy and compassion. I have seen children purposely set out to hurt animals. Believe me, these children have not been taught the opposite. If taught young enough, these kinds of behaviors can be avoided. Certainly, kids should be taught that if they are having a bad time or a problem, it is not appropriate to take it out on something smaller or weaker. Teaching our kids this, helps both the kids and the animals. I have also seen children get curious and go too far and then feel miserable afterwards. Teach them first and avoid this later.

From the time children are very young, I recommend that we teach them to be respectful of creatures we should not be near. Wildlife can be cute and cuddly looking, but it is wild. We should make sure to point out to our kids what the animal is and help them understand that it deserves our leaving it alone to do what it does naturally. Even if it is within a couple feet of us. We don't want to scare the daylights out of our kids about animals, however, teaching a healthy distance to prevent bites or other problems is important.

This is also true of domestic animals. There are 1000's of dog bites each and every year. You can never really predict what is going on in the mind of an animal you don't know. Our kids need to hear this more than once and watch to keep that distance. Additionally, it's good to teach our kids to ask the pet's owner if they can pet that animal or not first.

I would actually make a project out of this for the young ones. Take a walk around your neighborhood with your children and have them identify the names of animals and whether they think they're wild or home animals. When they identify what they are, ask them to then tell you how to react to them.

You will, of course, help them along the way to understand the distance, space, boundaries and rules of dealing with these animals. You'll also help them to understand that these are living things with families of their own and if they get hurt, they cannot see or be with their families anymore. Many times, this personalizing of the animal's situation is all it takes for a child's natural nurture tendencies to surface and understanding to become complete.

You have a wonderful opportunity to create some marvelous learning for your kids!

Summer season is time to check for ticks

It is summer and time for outdoor fun. And it is time to remind outdoor enthusiasts to take precautions against diseases caused by ticks.

At least 15 species of ticks are found in Illinois; the two most likely to be encountered however, are the American dog tick (or wood tick) and the lone star tick. Ticks live in and near wooded areas, tall grass and brush. If infected, they can spread various diseases, including ehrlichiosis, Lyme disease, Rocky Mountain spotted fever and tularemia. The ticks, often no bigger than the head of a pin, become active and can spread disease any time of year when the temperature is 40 degrees or more at ground level. Peak months for tickborne diseases are June, July and August.

Dr. John R. Lumpkin, state public health director, said the best way to protect yourself against tickborne illnesses is to avoid tick bites. He suggested the following precautions:

Avoid areas known to be infested with ticks.

If in an area where ticks are found, check your clothing often for ticks climbing toward open skin. Wear white or light-colored long sleeved shirts and long pants so ticks are easier to see. Tuck long pants into your socks. Tape the area where pants and socks meet so ticks cannot crawl under clothing. Wide masking tape works the best. Wear boots or sturdy shoes and a head covering.

Those who are not able to tolerate wearing long sleeves, long pants and socks in hot, muggy weather should apply insect repellent sparingly to exposed skin (except the face and hands of small children). Be sure to wash treated skin after coming indoors. Use repellents containing permethrin to treat clothes (especially pants, socks and shoes) but not skin. Always follow label directions; do not misuse or overuse repellents. Always supervise children in the use of repellents.

Walk in the center of trails so weeds do not brush against you.

Checkyourself, children and other family member every two to three hours for ticks. Ticks rarely transmit disease until they have been attached for four or more hours.

If you let your pets outdoors, check them often for ticks, which also can transmit disease to them. Check with your veterinarian about tick treatments. You can be at risk from ticks that hitch a ride on your pets but then come into contact and attach to you to feed.

Remove any tick promptly. Do not try to burn the tick with a match, or cover it with petroleum jelly or nail polish. Do not use bare hands. The best way to remove a tick is to grasp it with finepoint tweezers as close to the skin as possible and gently, but firmly, pull it straight out. Do not twist or jerk the tick. Avoid crushing the tick's body. If tweezers are not available, grasp the tick with a piece of tissue or cloth or whatever can be sued as a barrier between your fingers and tick. The mouthparts of a tick are shaped like tiny barbs and may remain embedded if not removed properly. You may want to put the tick in a jar of rubbing alcohol labeled with the date and location of the bite in case you experience or have signs or symptoms of a tickborne disease and want to have the tick identified

Wash the bite area and your hands thoroughly with soap and water, and apply an antiseptic to the bite site. Make sure the property around your home is unattractive to ticks. Keep your grass mowed and the

The following are brief descriptions of diseases carried by ticks in Illinois. For additional information, check the Department's Web site: www.idph.state.il.us under "Hot off the presses."

Ehrlichiosis is a disease caused by bacteria, Ehrlichia, that infect two different types of white blood cells and is transmitted by the bite of an infected tick. The lone star tick, the American dog tick (or wood tick) and the deer tick have been associated with this disease. The most common complaints are fever, headache and muscle aches. Persons with ehrlichiosis also may experience loss of appetite, nausea and vomiting. A rash may occur but is not usually present.

Lyme Disease. Although not many cases are reported in Illinois, nationally this is one of the fastest growing infectious diseases. Lyme disease is transmitted by the bite of an infected deer tick. Among its symptoms may be a rash that starts as a red patch and forms an expanding ring or bull's eye pattern. The rash may be accompanied by other symptoms such as fatigue, chills and fever, headache, swollen lymph nodes, and joint and muscle pain. Lyme disease is effectively treated with antibiotics. Even if not treated, symptoms may disappear, but can recur intermittently several weeks, months or years after acquiring the infection.

Erosion of Liberty: A July Fourth Lesson

thers crafted the Constitution they paid careful attention to the issue of liberty. One of the seven reasons given in the preamble for establishing the Constitution was to "secure the blessings of liberty." Liberty is the sum of the rights possessed in common by a group of people. It is also freedom from excessive control.

Recall the stirring words Patrick Henry spoke as he addressed the Virginia convention in the spring of 1775. Henry said, "Is life so dear or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it Almighty God! I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!"

Nearly 200 years later, John F. Kennedy said, "Let every Nation know, whether it wishes us well or ill, that we shall pay any price, bearany burden, meet any hardship, support any friend, oppose any foe, in order to assure the survival and success of liberty."

These were strong words from two strong Americans. But, I ask you to remember that this great country was formed by a revolution against what it's citizens considered a tyrannical government. And as a nation we've often fought great battles against oppressive powers.

tles against oppressive powers.

However, the greatest threat to our liberty today may not be an aggressive foreign power. (Even one armed with nuclear technology, which we made readily available.) The greatest threat may not be another revolution by those in our own country who oppose our ideals. No, the real threat to our liberty is much more certain, much more deadly and much more insidious

What is this great threat? Well, actually there are several threats to liberty.

The enemies of liberty

* Power-hungry leaders. I suppose as long as there have been people in power, there have been abusers of power. When powerhungry people put the gain of personal power above freedom, we have the erosion of liberty. James Madison said, "Since the general civilization of mankind I believe there are more instances of the abridgment of freedom of the people by gradual and silent encroachments of those in power than by violent and sudden usurpations." It continues today just as it did in Madison's time.

• Apathy. Apathy is truly an insidious threat. The lack of an active and spirited interest in freedom and liberty leads to the slow, but certain erosion of both.

When the majority of Americans fail to vote, choose not to get involved and don't pay attention to what is happening, the result is diminishing liberty. Because there are any number of minorities who care enough to vigorously advance their own agendas, we cease to be governed by all the people. We become a nation controlled by the active and aggressive few.

• Greed. The man who serves the cause of freedom for money, will likely serve any other cause for more money. There are those willing to sell their power in exchange for wealth.

These self-serving individuals

Internships give a career jump start

By ROBERT WARDE News Editor

Four college students have joined the team that produces eleven Lakeland Newspapers each week to gain practical experience and get a leg up on their

As it often does, Lakeland Newspapers has hired the students to work in its news and accounting departments.

Two—Jaclyn Graham and Kelly Duckworth—have been assigned to cover Lake County communities as reporters. One, Derek Nosal, has been working as a photographer in the news department and Mike Weidner has been spending his days in Lakeland's accounting department.

For the students, the experience has either been an interesting application of what they have learned in school, or a real-world awakening.

"I apply what I've learned in school to the job," said Weidner. For Kelly Duckworth, assigned to the Libertyville News, the experience has revealed a hidden passion.

"I wanted to be a photojournalist. I've discovered that writing is my forte," she said.

Graham, who has been assigned to cover Lake Villa, believes that the practical experience has given her a taste for what life will be like after graduation.

"What I'm learning here you don't learn in school," she said.

Duckworth, who will be a sophomore, said she needed an internship in order to be admitted to the journalism program at the University of Illinois Champaign-Urbana-Champaign.

"I was told that I needed clips (copies of published work) to be admitted."

For Nosal, a career in photography was already in the plans, but the internship has "helped me visualize my future. It's been a good experience."

Nosal, who will also be a sophomore at Syracuse University, said he will pursue a career in magazine publishing.

"Magazines are more focused. I hope to work for a music magazine," Nosal said. Graham was surprised at the level of responsibility she has been given. The University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana student is heading into her junior year and hopes to work for Time

Magazine some day.

"This is a wonderful experience as far as learning what a reporter does," Graham said.

Weidner said that one of the most valuable aspects of his internship has been the experience he has gained working with the latest accounting software.

The University of Dubuque student will be a senior and he said the internship will help him in evaluating job opportunities after graduation.

"I'll know what to look for," he said.

The experience pays dividends for Lakeland Newspapers, as well.

"We get to have some talented people on our team for a couple of months and help develop future journalists and business people. It's a win for everyone," said Lakeland Executive Editor Neal Tucker.

Tucker added that providing students with practical experience is important because it develops the skills and abilities of potential full-time team members.

"The more real-world experience an employee has, the more valuable he or she will be to a future employer," Tucker said.

Other full-time summer employees going back to college are Gina Gottschalk in Ad Services, Mike Nobler in classified and Al Combs in Internet services.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search:

Is there a limit as to how many times a person can apply for unemployment compensation? The reason I ask, is that a friend of a friend has been receiving unemployment checks for what seems to be several years now. He will take a job here or there for a week or two and then sits back and picks up odd jobs for cash. It appears he is living quite comfortably and brags about this. Personally, it makes me sick. Does anyone follow up on people like this?

A.R.-Lindenhurst

Dear A.R.:

Dear A.R.:

How many times can a person apply for a job?

Possibilities may be endless, or to most, preferably few and far between. Just because an individual applies for unemployment compensation does not necessarily make them eligible. Unemployment recipients are required, on a weekly basis, to turn in a list of companies that they have contacted for employment. Failure to file these forms weekly results in a loss of wages. Furthermore, failure to report accurate information, or reporting fraudulent information, can not only result in loss of wages, but can also have legal ramifications such as reimbursement and, in some cases, incarceration. There are special groups affiliated with the Department of Unemployment Security that are specifically designed to follow up on weekly claim forms to be sure that the information as to their active work search is valid. These groups will contact companies to insure the fact that if an individual claims to have applied for a job with the ABD company...they in fact did so. Every unemployed wage recipient should take the Department of Unemployment Security seriously. The system should not be abused. The people who suffer are the taxpayers in this country. If you know someone wrongfully receiving unemployment wages while currently working, you may contact your local Department of Unemployment Security (Waukegan).

If, on the other hand, any readers out there feel that they have wrongfully been depict unemployment companies to the people whose the people whose the people who suffer are the taxpayers in this country. If you know someone wrongfully been depict unemployment Security (Waukegan).

If, on the other hand, any readers out there feel that they have wrongfully been denied unemployment compensation, it is your right to contact the Unemployment office where you applied and ask to go before an Arbitration Officer who can make a final determination. In either case, be sure you have all the facts ready.
